Police hope it's 1, Not 4, coed killers

By JOHN COBB
Of The Press Staff

"We're certainly looking for a man with a distorted mind," said Ann Arbor Police Chief Walter E. Krasny Wednesday to a special press conference called to discuss the brutal death of 16-year-old Maralynn Skelton, who's beaten nude body was found Monday morning in northeast Ann Arbor.

Chief Krasny said that Dr.

Robert C. Hendricks, head of the University of Michigan pathology department found the cause of death to be due to a severe blow to the head and multiple skull fractures and lacerations of the brain.

There was no strangulation indicated in the autopsy. Dr. Hendricks, the chief said, was unable to pinpoint the time of death and said it could have occurred any time between Saturday, when the girl was reported missing, and Monday, when she was found.

Described as a known user of hard drugs, police now say Maralynn's killer may also be someone who was under the influence of narcotics. Wayne County Sheriff's Department detectives have said the girl was a user for three years and then turned to pushing the drugs a year ago. She had recently tried to kick the habit and asked members of the Sheriff's Department women's detective division for help.

It was reported that Maralynn had been treated earlier in the year for an overdose of drugs and had been taken into custody twice by police for using and pushing drugs. She had advanced, it was reported, from marijuana to using heroin and "speed" (amphetamines).

Chief Krasny said the killing was extremely vicious and said the welt marks on the dead girl's body could have been caused by a belt, strap or rope. He said there were no indications she had been "staked out" in the area where her body was found.

Police theorize that the young girl may have been killed at the spot where she was found. "I hope we're looking for one man and not four different killers," Chief Krasny said. He noted that the girl probably was killed where she was found in Penberton Rd. because of the position in which she was found.

"It could have taken more than one person to move her there and arrange her clothing the way it was found," he observed. The girl was found nude lying on her jacket. Her blouse was stuffed in her mouth and slacks and underpants were lying next to the body. Her shoes were positioned carefully at her feet ... very similar in manner to the shoes found at the scene of the Jane L. Mixer death last Friday in Denton Cemetery.

Evidence, according to Chief Krasny indicates the girl may have been alive when sexually molested. "Who ever attacked her carefully arranged her clothing. What ever acts took place, took place where her body was found," he said. Police also theorize that the girl may have been attacked in a car, and then ran through the woods hoping to escape to a nearby house under construction, and been struck in the head as she ran.

Police are checking all acquaintances of the girl in the attempt to straighten out numerous conflicting reports about her last hours in Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti. Even reports from her parents differ as to her actions on Saturday. Her parents had reported the girl leaving Flint either by bus or hitchhiking on Saturday. Wayne County deputies however, said a friend of the dead girl told them Maralynn had been taken to US-23 and Washtenaw Ave. by her father.

Chief Krasny said that medical factors, which weren't revealed, lead them to believe that the girl was killed where she was found. He said that some new things have recently

Feeling of being 'home' Eludes family of eight

By WARREN EDWARDS

Happiness can mean a home.

But for some, both can be hard to come by.

Such is the case for middle-aged Mr. and Mrs. James C. Reahard — and their six children. They live in a city-owned house at 118 S. Grove St., which is scheduled to be knocked down Tuesday to make way, ironically, for low-cost housing.

They have been paying $75 a month for the 4-bedroom home. But the mother, Jane, 47, says she and her husband have searched all over the Ypsilanti area and can not find a place big enough to house their brood at a price they can afford to pay. Prices are all $100 or more, she said.

To make matters worse, Mrs. Reahard recently lost her job when the Arlan's Discount Department Store burned down. Her husband, 51, is now a driver-salesman for a cleaning firm in Plymouth.

The Reahards are not on relief and Mrs. Reahard says they never have been and never will be.

But here's the crux of their problem. They don't own a car, the father drives a company truck. To support the six children, one of whom is in college, both have to work. Without bus service, Mrs.

For tax extension:

Nixon fiscal Plans sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats want President Nixon to disclose his recommendations for budget cutting and tax reform before committing themselves on extending the 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Nixon recently asked Congress Wednesday to extend the surcharge, worth about $10 billion in annual revenues, for a year beyond its June 30 expiration date. He said the government needs a strong budget surplus, along with a cautious monetary policy, to curb inflation.

Democratic reaction in the House, where all tax legislation must originate, was publicly guarded.

Speaker John W. McCormack told a news conference he supposes that, since Nixon asked for the extension, Congress will vote it.

The Ways and Means Committee, which writes tax legislation, simply said no hearings will be scheduled for the present. It is deep in public sessions on general tax reform.

Privately, however, Democratic sources said party members resent what they regard as pressure to extend an unpopular tax before they know to what extent and in what programs Nixon intends to cut former President Johnson's last budget and whether the administration will support tax reforms in controversial fields.

Nixon said in his tax message he intends to cut Johnson's budget for the year beginning July 1 significantly under the January estimates. But he did not say how.

That budget called for about $195 billion in spending, but congressional analysts say some underestimates and subsequent cost increases raise it to about $197 billion.

The Democrats' best tactics in requiring Nixon to make the first move may be simply to delay hearings on the surtax. The legislation has a built-in deadline—June 30.

In the Senate, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and John J. Williams of Delaware, senior Republican on the Finance Committee, have urged spending cuts be tied to any surtax extension.

The business community expected and accepted the surtax proposal with little excitement.

Another New York investment analyst, Monte Gordon of Bache & Co., commented: "Extension of the surcharge has been anticipated and discounted. I don't think there will be any reaction by the market."

Dentist Solves Problem

QUINCY, Wash. (AP) — For a while there, M. F. Slusher's problem seemed insoluble.

The problem was this: Slusher is violently allergic to dentine dust, the fine powder of dentine, or tooth enamel, which flies out when a tooth is drilled. Slusher is a dentist.

Dr. Slusher, who had been practicing for 14 years, developed the allergy all of a sudden a couple of years ago. Every time he inhaled dental dust he came down with a disabling asthma attack. He says such an allergy is a rarity.

Doctors could do nothing for him, and Slusher was forced to leave the practice he shared with three associates.

Recently he had an inspiration.

Why not work with his head in a bag to keep the tooth dust at bay?

Slusher returned to his office outfitted with a plastic helmet, similar to a type used by chemical workers.

Looking much like an oversized bread wrapper with the top end tied off, the helmet has its own air supply line.

When he's plugged in, Slusher has about six feet of moving space.

Wayne Federal begins Month-long observance

A special month-long grand opening observance will begin tomorrow at Wayne Federal Savings and Loan Association's renovated downtown office at 123 W. Michigan Ave., according to local office manager Elizabeth Oltersdorf.

The celebration, to coincide with the association's passbook savings promotion, will run through April 30 in order to encourage visitors and new accounts at the location. Umbrellas will also be given to new accounts of $250 or more opened during the month, the manager explained.

The offices have been remodeled inside and out with the front half of the second floor having been removed to open the lobby and service areas. A new glass front has been installed along with a rear entranceway—both being accented by landscaping.

The expanded lobby area has about twice the customer service area as the original and it has been completely carpeted with new wall-to-wall.

Local architects Z. T. Gerganoff and Associates, Inc. of 103 W. Michigan Ave. and general contractor Herman E. Atkinson of 801 N. Prospect St. have planned and executed the remodeling.

Pope Paul wants To hear atheists

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today told a group of sociologists surveying atheism in the world the Roman Catholic Church is willing to listen to the voice of nonbelievers, but he urged that his voice also be heard.

"We, too, are non-believers," the Pope said in a 35-minute audience. "We do not believe that the development of modern thought ... leads to necessity of the denial of God ... We do not believe that science and belief in God are antithetical terms."

The Pope spoke at the close of the first symposium of "the culture of unbelief," sponsored by the Vatican Secretariat for NonBelievers and the University of California at Berkeley.

After his talk, the Pope, dressed in a white cassock, went around the room speaking and shaking hands with sociologists and theologians.

Among the first the Pope shook hands with was black-bearded Harvey Cox, professor at the Harvard Divinity School and author of the book "The Secular City."

Although the symposium was organized to discuss atheism, the word atheism itself rarely came up.

"It's out of vogue," said the Rev. Herve Carrier, rector of the pontifical Gregorian University and a participant in the symposium "The Culture of Unbelief."

The symposium drew Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and "unbelieving" scholars from nine countries.

"We don't mention atheist or agnostic," said Father Carrier after a session Wednesday. "Atheist" is a word in relation to traditional religion, a word invented by believers who condemn others. Like saying: 'You're an atheist! You're condemned!'

The symposium, sponsored by the Vatican Secretariat for NonBelievers and the University of California at Berkeley, ends today. But it was clearly a beginning, not an end, to discussions between Vatican priests and secular sociologists on why some people believe in God, why others don't and what's in store for religion in the future.

Contraceptives for pigeons May solve Cliffs' problem

LONDON (AP) — The Swiss came up today with a contraceptive for pigeons, and embattled Britons demanded similar steps to decimate the swarm of seagulls circling over the white cliffs of Dover.

The city fathers of Geneva introduced a grain impregnated with a brown substance aimed at preventing ovulation in female pigeons who have been reproducing at an alarming rate.

The Swiss plan to scatter the grain around pigeon haunts and attempt to prevent bird lovers from providing any other food.

Geneva's pigeon population has reached 30,000 and with females averaging six young each year, the prospects are frightening.

Britons who rhapsodized 20 years ago about "bluebirds over the white cliffs of Dover," complain that shrieking seagulls now haunt the cliffs and have even begun nesting in the town.

Mamie 'remains close'

Ike weakens even more

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower "continues to grow weaker," his doctors said today. In a morning medical bulletin from Walter Reed Army Hospital the doctors reported the five-star general is "sleeping for longer periods" but when awake is lucid enough to converse with members of his immediate family.

His physicians said late Wednesday his condition was deteriorating and he was not responding to treatment for the severe heart congestion threatening his life.

Their latest report, read to newsmen by Brig. Gen. Frederic J. Hughes Jr., hospital commanding general, said evidences of Eisenhower's potentially fatal congestive heart failure "continue unchanged."

Student protest exams Adjourned until May

The preliminary examinations of seven students involved in the Feb. 20 demonstrations at Eastern Michigan University lasted for some eight hours yesterday and has been adjourned until May 1st.

Four students pleaded guilty yesterday to a reduced charge of aiding and abetting the incitement of a disturbance — they were originally charged with conspiracy to cause a disturbance — and were given fines of $43 and $73.

The four were Walter L. Long, Jr., 19, of Buell Hall, Walter C. Terry, 21, of Pontiac, Laras E. Eason, 19, also of Pontiac, and John R. Yorkdale, a white EMU student not present at an earlier hearing.

A fifth student, Reche Davis, 19, a non-student from Benton Harbor, also pleaded guilty to the reduced charge. He was found to be in possession of a concealed weapon — a gas cartridge pen — when arrested, and was fined $73.

The preliminary examination of the remaining seven continued until 6 p.m.

They are Gerald W. Bubenhofer, 28, of 2000 Huron River Dr., Douglas Sanders, 20, of Detroit, William A. Thigpen, 21, of Detroit, James C. Burney, 27, of Highland Park, Ronald R. Berts, 23, of 1932 Washtenaw Ave., Rodney L. Conerly, 20, of Flint and Kurt C. Hill, 19, of Detroit.

"Witnesses were called to the stand by Chief Assistant Prosecutor Booker T. Williams and identified the defendants in pictures taken at the time of the arrests on Feb. 20, when students took over the administration building on the EMU campus.

Deputies from the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, Eastern Michigan police and a local newsman were all called by the prosecutor to testify.

Several pictures and chains — used to lock the doors of the administration building — were placed in evidence by the prosecution.

The defense attorneys objected to the use of the pictures. Judge Edward D. Deake admitted the pictures, and said he would rule on the objection later.

The attorneys defending the seven are John M. Barr of Ypsilanti and James Jackson of Detroit.

Edward Linta, acting dean of students at EMU, was also called to the stand to tell his story of what happened on the day of the demonstrations at Eastern. He told of his efforts to tell the students to leave the building and of trying to set up a meeting with the university president.

After eight hours of hearing witnesses Judge Deake adjourned the examination until May 1.

The case of one other student, Rogers A. Campbell, 22, of Detroit, was adjourned to April 23 to allow his attorney to appear.

Debt limit Increase Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is expected to sign promptly a bill raising the national debt limit to a record $377 billion, averting a tight squeeze the federal Treasury expected in less than three weeks.

The Senate voted 67 to 18 Wednesday to send the bill to the President after Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told his colleagues they had no choice but to pass it. The House approved it March 19, 313 to 92.

It raises the limit by $12 billion but will expire June 30, 1970 and return the limit to $365 billion, forcing the administration to return for another look at its policies next spring if the debt reaches the $374 billion predicted for March and April 1970.

Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy testified Monday the projected federal debt will be more than $2 billion over the present $365 billion ceiling on April 15, making the immediate increase necessary.

'New hearts' to go after Cohos

WAYNE — Michigan's three heart transplant patients are planning a Coho salmon fishing expedition together in September.

"How do you like that?" asks Donald Kraminski, transplant patient No. 2, who got his new heart last December. "Three transplants in one boat!"

Kraminski, 38, contacted the state's other two transplant patients to invite them on the trip.

"I'm ready to go," Gerald K. Rector, 43, told nurses at the University of Michigan Hospital, where he still is recuperating from heart transplant March 7.

Philip T. Barnum, the state's first transplant patient, also has accepted the invitation, hospital spokesmen said.

Kraminski says he plans to take up the invitation of a group of doctors in Iowa to do some bird shooting, but first he wants to:

—Drive to Alpena, 250 miles from the Detroit suburb of Wayne where he is convalescing with his daughter and son-in-law, to do some fishing with his teenage son.

—Go trout fishing with a friend in north central Michigan.

—Go fishing with another friend in Canada.

—Attend a banquet in April, when the Michigan Heart Association wants to make him an honorary lifetime member.

Kraminski does a lot of driving in the new car he bought three days after being released from the hospital in early February.

He frequently goes to the local YMCA for swimming, makes occasional trips to a variety of billiard emporiums to help him regain his standing as "a pretty good pool player," and heads for the horse tracks to test a system he says he developed while he was in the hospital.

Kraminski follows doctors orders to walk frequently.

Kraminski says the doctors have told him to rest if he shows signs of getting tired.

"But I don't get tired," he adds, "I sleep like a log, get up early and stay up late, and I feel fine."

The recuperating patient says he's overjoyed with being able "to wax and polish my own car, work a bicycle pump, run up five or six flights of stairs — things I couldn't do for years. Otherwise," he adds, "I never notice my new heart. It's just like I had it all my life."

The University Hospital reports the most recent transplant, Rector, already is getting out of bed and walking around his room. Doctors had encountered some difficulty making the transplant, because the new heart had to replace a diseased one that was five times normal size.

Pueblo crewman Likes 'home' snow

KALAMAZOO (AP) — "I'll take all the snow right here," said a Kalamazoo sailor upon his return home Wednesday following 11 months' captivity in North Korea.

PO I.C. David Barrett was a member of the crew of the USS Pueblo when it was captured by North Korea.

Now, following the prison camp ordeal and three grueling months of interrogation in California, Barrett has returned home to his wife, Ursula, and two children, Danny, 9, and Susan, 7.

Barrett, awarded a Purple Heart following his release from captivity, said it was simply "wonderful" to be in Michigan again.

The communications technician is spending 60 days on leave before returning to his next assignment.

What lies ahead for Barrett?

When asked, he said, "I'll stay in it (the Navy) as long as they let me."

Senate honors Two educators

LANSING (AP) — The Senate Wednesday passed resolutions of tribute to two educators.

The late James K. Pollack, former head of the University of Michigan Political Science Department, was praised as "One of Michigan's esteemed public servants of international eminence."

John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University who is resigning April 1, was singled out "for his life and works" as president of MSU and governmental advisor.

In Pittsfield:

Utilities 'advisory' vote set

A referendum vote on installation of sewer and water facilities is set for a number of residents in Pittsfield Township.

The vote will be in Washtenaw Subdivision No. 2 on the west side of Golfside Dr. from Ellsworth Rd. nearly to Packard Rd.

The decision to call for an "advisory vote" was made after a lengthy discussion during a meeting of the township board Tuesday night. Many property owners in the subdivision object to the cost of water and sewers. They now have their own wells and septic tanks.

Treasurer Samuel A. Morgan said there are about 78 homes in the area.

It also was decided at the board meeting to conduct a public information meeting in the township hall on April 1 in which township residents may air their complaints.

The board also approved an electrical ordinance.

The Washtenaw Community College is among three Michigan schools which received preaccreditation status from the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at the conclusion of its 74th annual meeting.

The association conferred pre-accredited status on two other Michigan schools and one more was given preaccreditation as a correspondent.

Given preaccredited status were Michigan Christian College of Sidney and Monroe County Community College of Monroe.

Recognized as a preaccredited correspondent was Bay de Noc Community College of Escanaba.

Booklet Distributed

A 4-page campaign pamphlet denouncing Urban Renewal and urging repeal of the recently adopted City Housing Code is being distributed today in the name of City Council candidate John E. Freer.

The brochure also proposes a revised city administration, a return to representation by wards on the Council and increased financial support for common services from Eastern Michigan University.

Freer, one of eight candidates for the three City Council seats to be decided by general election April 7, emphasized his opposition to the housing code which will be decided the same day on a special referendum ballot.

deterioration which was hindering the ability of Eisenhower's heart to pump and adequately empty its chambers.

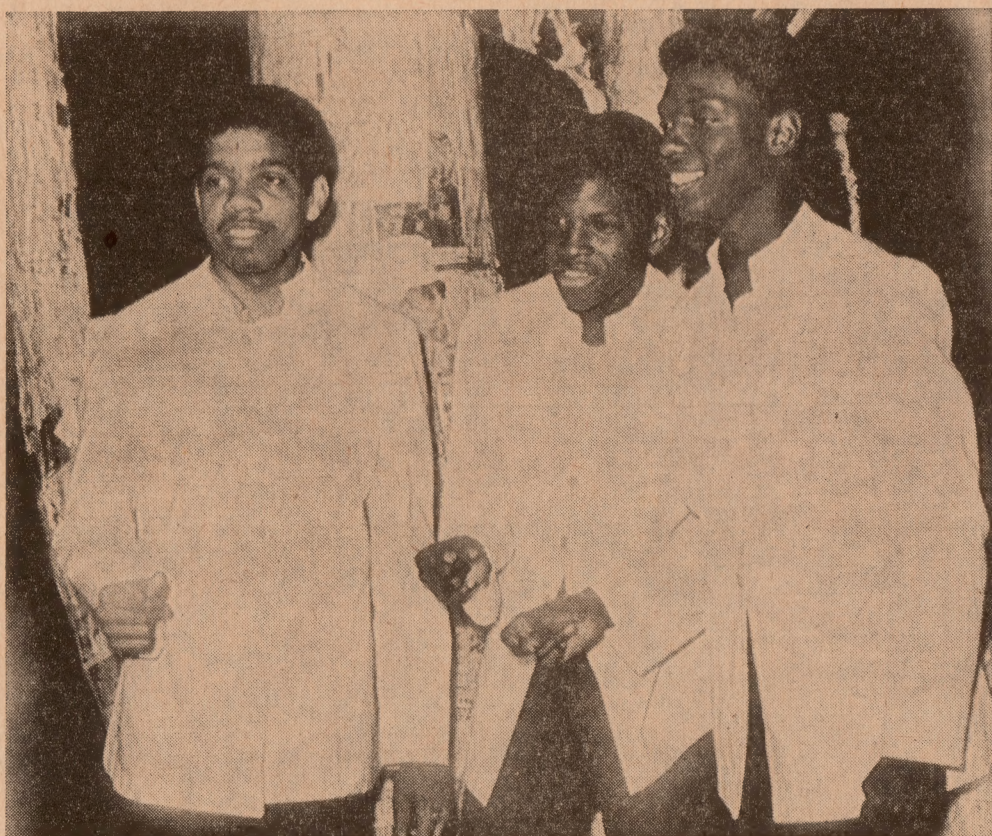

This was the condition that was resulting in the severe congestion.

In spite of the dim outlook, the general received visitors Wednesday night, including President Nixon who spent a few minutes talking with his former boss.

Although Eisenhower's doctors continued to refer to his "inherent stamina" and his "astounding... will to live," they did tell newsmen the general could not survive without the treatment being used. They would not elaborate.

Previously, they had listed the following as the treatment being used: continuous oxygen, drugs to strengthen the heart and drugs designed to combat the accumulation of fluids in body tissues.

Eisenhower's heart has been weakened by four heart attacks in the last 11 months. These attacks have led to the weakening of the heart muscles, which has resulted in the impaired pumping ability and congestion.

Car nearly Severed In crash

An Ann Arbor resident was injured yesterday when his car skidded into the east-bound lane on I-94 just inside the Ann Arbor city limits.

Eric E. Daniel, 48 of 4161 Thorns Rd., is listed in good condition at University of Michigan Hospital. His injuries are listed as facial lacerations, broken ribs and a possible back injury.

The Daniel automobile was eastbound on I-94 and went into a skid on an overpass. The vehicle skidded off the left side of the roadway and crossed the median into the westbound lane.

The car then skidded broadside into the path of a tractor trailer truck operated by Denver Mayes, 26, of Van Buren, Ark. Mayes complained of pains, but was not hospitalized.

He told Ann Arbor police he saw the car skid and crossed the median into his path. He tried to stop but was unable to do so in time to avoid the collision. It was reported that the Daniel automobile was nearly cut in two by the collision.

WRHS holds career day

Over 40 business and industry representatives from the Southeastern Michigan area appeared at Willow Run High School yesterday and Tuesday to acquaint students with job opportunities.

The 2-day "Career Exploration" program is the first such presentation in the school's "recent history", according to Assistant Willow Run Principal Gregory Milkins.

Arranged by WR Counselor Mrs. Mary Lee, the program featured representatives of various job fields giving short talks to students.

Day care motions due

Washtenaw County's Advisory Committee on Economic Opportunity will meet tonight at 8 p.m. at Perry Elementary School, 633 Harriet St.

On the meeting agenda will be a recommendation from an ad hoc committee on what type of day care facilities should be offered by the County Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) agency. This committee was formed at the last OEO meeting as result of the closing of the WRAND Day Care Center and the assumption of its operations by the county OEO.

Neighborhood group to meet

The Neighborhood Advisory Council will meet Monday night at 7:30 at the Ypsilanti Neighborhood Center at 535 Harriet St.

Slated for discussion by the citizens' group will be proposed community improvements including better traffic control, more recreational facilities, and increased garbage and trash pick-up.

The public is invited to attend.

In a meeting this week the Council elected the following temporary officers: chairman, Mrs. Earnestine Williams of 549 First Court, and vice-chairman, Clarence Davis of 430 Ainsworth Circle.

Parking lot, UR Set for hearings

The City Planning Commission last night set hearing dates on proposed action in the Parkridge Urban Renewal area and on a proposed parking lot expansion for the Post Office.

The commission also acted to rezone property on the west side of Warner Ave. north of W. Michigan Ave., which was included in the recent Silkworth annexation, from its township residential classification to R-1 (single-family housing).

A hearing to consider the proposed rezoning of residential areas in the UR project area will be held April 30, along with a hearing about proposed street and alley vacations for residential developments.

A third hearing on April 30 will be held to consider a request from the Milwaukee Investment Co. of Detroit for a rezoning on S. Adams St. to allow development of a parking lot to service the Post Office. The firm owns the building, leasing it to the Post Office, and presently is seeking to rezone property at 112 S. Adams St. from R-3 (multiple-family residential) to P-Parking.

City Planning Director Jerry W. Morford also reported today that the commission will hold a study session on April 9 in order to consider the proposed horizontal planning report.

Players take bite Of 'Straw Hat' farce

By SUSAN CARROLL Of The Press Staff

It is fruitless to attempt to criticize the Eastern Michigan University Players' production of "An Italian Straw Hat," which opened last evening in Pease Auditorium.

There is nothing to be derived from criticism which cannot be constructive.

From start to halfway point — which is where this reviewer reached the breaking point — the production was utterly disappointing, particularly so because the play itself is well within the range of an amateur troupe.

The actors, all determined to look and sound like Actors, limited themselves to a dramatization of what must have been the stage directions —robustly, with agitation etc. Each fell neatly, not even into caricature, but to the reduction of absurdity of a single expression.

Costumes were colorful, but unexciting; and the sets, although cleverly conceived to allow for multiple scene changes, were uninspired.

The actors did not seem capable of a graceful movement, let alone the coordination an entire dance sequence.

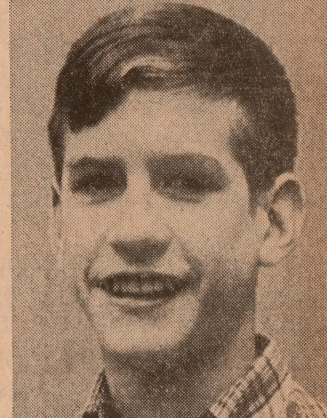

There is no denying that last night's performance was bad, but there is always a chance that the production will sharpen with subsequent performances. It is more likely that future productions will have to be called upon to redeem this effort.

The Players should not be judged on what is undoubtedly one of their weakest productions.

Schools set For time study

ANN ARBOR — Ann Arbor Public Schools was one of eight Michigan school districts to receive state funds for undertaking a study to determine the feasibility of year-round classes or an extended school year.

The Ann Arbor district received $18,500 out of an over-all $100,000 allocated by the State Board of Education for such study projects.

ROBERT M. BALL

Soph wins Oratory Test—again

For the second year in a row, Robert M. Ball, 15, a sophomore at Ypsilanti High School, walked off with first place honors this morning in the Breakfast Optimist Club's annual oratorical contest.

Topic for each contestant's 4-5 minute speech was "Respect for law, cornerstone for citizenship."

By winning the club competition, Robert earned a berth in the April 14 zone contest at Manchester. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Ball, of 2100 Burns Rd., he placed third in the zone last year.

Runner-up honors went to Dave Pretzlaff, the son of Rev. and Mrs. Paul T. Pretzlaff of 1006 Pearl St. Dave is a ninth-grader at West Junior High.

Dean Martelle, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Richard Martelle of 1103 W. Cross St. and an eighth-grader at West Junior High, placed third.

Zone competition, which will include nine club winners, will be followed by contests at the regional and state level. The boys are competing for $2,000 in scholarship grants.

Joint efforts commendable On lake, road projects

Two apparently large steps forward were taken by governmental bodies at separate meetings Tuesday night and deserve commendation from the community.

One is the decision by the Ypsilanti Township Board, following by 24 hours similar action of the City Council, to form a joint recreation group to own and develop Ford Lake. It is a (potentially) invaluable asset to the Ypsilanti community; hundreds of acres across the country would pay dearly for it if they could acquire such a property.

Although negotiations to accept the lake from the Ford Motor Co. have taken more than two years, the major battle still lies ahead — proper development as an Ypsilanti community recreation area. Financing as always will prove the biggest hurdle, but at least city and township are moving in the right direction by their cooperative efforts in this vital project.

As one spectator commented before the Township Board acted, "We've looked (this) gift-horse in the mouth long enough!"

The other forward step was another endorsement, this time from Washtenaw Community College trustees, of the planned renovation of N. Huron River Dr.

The work is badly needed now, and as development of Eastern Michigan University's West Campus and the community college progress, will be even more desperately needed.

On the surface everyone seems to agree that the widening and paving project is needed: the only catches are who will pay how much toward the $1 million program. Two agencies who will have to be major contributors if the project is to be undertaken have yet to be heard from, officially. They are the Washtenaw County Road Commission and Eastern Michigan University.

The Road Commission has a nearly empty till and faces a host of needed road improvements throughout the county. General funds of the county also are allocated elsewhere for the most part. Two possibilities for the county to pay its share would be from general funds this calendar year or in 1970 (the project will take till mid-1970 for completion), or the Road Commission could issue bonds against future road-weight tax monies.

The bonding plan has been rejected by the road group in the past because of high interest costs and because it would limit revenues in future years until the bonds were retired. But with the inflationary spiral in road construction, the interest costs may be money well spent now, rather than waiting years to do road work on a piecemeal, "pay-as-we-go" basis.

EMU's share of the N. Huron River Dr. project presumably could be made available, because the work will be done on the major road connecting the new West Campus and the existing campus. However, indications are that the university is waiting for a commitment from the city to permanently close the westernmost end of W. Forest Ave. as a public street before making any commitment towards helping pay for the N. Huron River Dr. work.

Should an impasse develop we hope a solution can be jointly worked out to the benefit of the entire community, such as was the case in the city-township Ford Lake venture.

'Hats off' to a fine team

TO THE EDITOR:

Before the memory of the past basketball season fades away, a well-deserved word of congratulations and thanks to the Ypsilanti Braves' basketball team and Coach Dick Ouellette for the most exciting and successful basketball season this city has had the pleasure of experiencing. Enough praise can't be given to these boys for the hard work, sportsmanship and spirit they showed all season long, resulting in another conference championship and a remarkable tournament record carrying them into the state finals for a second straight year.

Not having that "big" man in the middle, and being one of the smaller Class A teams in the state, they couldn't be expected to go undefeated through the regular season for another year, and few people gave them much chance of getting beyond the regionals of the state tournament.

'Can you afford to vote no'

TO THE EDITOR:

This message is directed to "A Parent," whose letter appeared March 17. You complained because a group of seventh grade swimmers was required to walk about 1/4 mile across the lawn to Edmonson Junior High from the Willow Run pool during one of the recent bomb threat evacuations. It appears you are grasping at straws in your effort to discredit our school officials. Which was more urgent — that an all-out effort be made to assure the safety of 1,000 students or that a small group of seventh graders be spared the hardship of an invigorating five minute walk across the school grounds? I agree that it's time to take a stand, but not in the manner you suggest. It's time to take a stand in support of our school officials and their high regard for the safety of our children. It's time to take a stand for the continued development of an already fine educational program and yes, it's time to take a stand for adequate finances to operate our schools.

A "no" vote just won't get the job done. A "Yes" vote will assure your child and mine an opportunity for a complete education. I can't afford to vote "No." Can you?

James V. Prewitt

Robb accused of Interest conflict

TO THE EDITOR:

With the city election near, I must speak out about an apparent conflict of interest. As my elected representative, I expect whomever I support to be in a position not only to represent me, but also to look after my interests as a resident of this community. Since the interests of the residents and those of Eastern Michigan University are sometimes in direct conflict, no one person can fairly represent them both simultaneously.

In my opinion it is impossible to serve on the highest policy-making body of EMU and be committed to the growth and special interests of that organization, and at the same time serve on the governing body of the city in which that university is located and be committed to protect the interests of the residents of that city.

In the past this councilman has abstained from voting on an issue before the council because of his position as a regent of EMU. I think this constitutes admission on his part that holding these two positions constitutes a definite case of conflict of interest. However, this councilman was not elected to sit on council and abstain from voting. In abstaining, he was not carrying out his responsibilities as a duly elected official of this community, he was not representing the citizens who elected him to this important position, he was not doing what he was elected to do.

The obvious answer to this dilemma would be for him to have voluntarily resigned from the council when he accepted the appointment as regent or for him not to seek re-election to the council now that his term there is about to expire. Since he has chosen neither of these courses, the only choice left to the residents of Ypsilanti is to defeat Richard N. Robb at the polls April 7.

Labor report

Shortman repels Mafia meddling In union local

NEW YORK — Old Vito Genovese is a hole in the ground but his troops go muscling on. Just the other day, a burly chap known to the trade as "Chin Chin" Gigante, and to the FBI as No. 5020214, and to this city's police as B-231328, found a prosperous union of hard-working men and decided to make it his fief.

But there are surprises even in the life of ex-boxer, 263-pound Gigante, though his don is "Tommy Ryan" Eboli, Vito's not very apparent heir.

"The Chin," as he is called by the in-boys over in cafestudded Greenwich Village, was told by the union chief to keep his convict hands off the labor organization, to get out and stay out.

It took courage to tell off the recapped mob of the late boss of bosses. But the union leader, Thomas (Tommy) Shortman, had the courage to do what many should be doing, but just don't, every hour on the hour, if the FBI's statistics are correct. Inevitably they are.

Tommy Shortman, half Gigante's size and weight (when wet), doesn't look like a hero, doesn't want to be etched in heroic terms and will probably resent being discussed in such dramatic fashion. For years now, he has been president of the 35-year-old (Building) Service Employees Union (AFL-CIO) Local 32B — probably the nation's second or third largest local.

There were decent men at its birth — and deadly killers too. Sometimes dues were collected in cash and dumped into trunks. As the years went by, some of us hammered at the Mafia's who were in the union's fancy woodwork. Soon it was cleansed by a tough Irishman, David Sullivan, who fought a battle or two when in the Irish Republican Army — and now on occasion leads a St. Patrick's Day parade.

Soon Mr. Sullivan led Local 32B's international union, the Service Employees, and moved on to Washington, D.C., to build it into a powerful transcontinental union of 400,000 members — some of whom work in West Indies hotels.

Bantam Tommy Shortman stepped into his place here, where Local 32B has jurisdiction over the 600 men over at Rockefeller Center (including 80 special security officers). The local, 43,000 strong, has contracts with at least 7,000 other realty firms who own everything from the glass towers on Park Ave. to the one-man (superintendent or janitor) walk-ups in Brooklyn.

The union has a healthy cash balance and an inclusive welfare fund covering its thousand of elevator operators, charwomen, janitors and other service people who need full value from every penny paid by the operators. Thousands of these workers are from the city's ghetto areas. They won't make the French Riviera on what they earn but their wages in many sections of this city are the country's highest for their job classification. There also is a big pension fund.

It's a clean union and Mr. Shortman earns a modest salary, and the record shows even more modest "reimbursed expenses." I know "Tommy." But I would not chronicle this without checking with knowledgeable men of the law, for which he'll forgive me, and they all rate him and his union mighty clean.

So it is natural territory for the Mafia. It's their kind of thing. There was not a single Cosa Nostra diamonded finger in its till this apparently dazzled "The Chin" Gigante. He began moving in. The grapevine came alive.

"It is true," Mr. Shortman told this inquirer, "these muscle men came. We have faced this for years. We've tossed them out and kept them out. We'll stay that way. Once you let them in you're finished."

That was it. Tommy takes the cup for closemouthedness. He knows whom he dared toss out. It is all in the record.

Not too long ago, the Senate committee which held the Valachi hearings reported that Vincent Gigante was "A rapidly rising younger member of the underworld who has gained recognition by carrying out strong-arm assignments for underworld chief Vito Genovese."

Convicted on a narcotics conspiracy charge, "The Chin" went to prison with his boss of bosses, Genovese. Before that, he gained fame in his game when he was arrested and charged with attempting to kill the Mafia's old prime minister, Frankie Costello. Mr. Gigante was acquitted.

He has powerful friends, such as the local printing company which put up $75,000 of his $100,000 bail at the time.

So why not write about Tommy Shortman as a hero? What matter if it embarrasses him? Perhaps his heroics might embarrass a lot of others in labor, in business and, yes, in government and the Congress, into telling off the mob.

Pride hit with breach suit, Counter sues for damages

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Youth Pride Economic Enterprises, Inc., the much-publicized Negro-operated project to provide employment for Washington ghetto youth, is being sued for breach of contract.

Theodore Brockman, McLean, Va., who sold his lawn maintenance and gardening business to Pride, Inc., last year, has filed suit in the federal court of Alexandria, Va., for $50,000 in damages and other claims. In his complaint, Brockman declares:

"On or about March 2, 1968, the plaintiff entered into a contract with the defendant corporation . . . The defendant corporation through its officers, agents, servants and employees has breached that contract by failure to pay the plaintiff 20 per cent of the net income of all contracts which were assigned to the defendant corporation by the plaintiff, and the contract was otherwise breached by said defendant, its officers, agents, servants and employees."

Pride, Inc., has counter sued for $15,000 in alleged damages.

ALLEN

GOLDSMITH

The Negro enterprise is represented by two law firms. Philip Hirschkop, member of one of them, was attorney for H. Rap Brown, stormy former head of SNCC, in a court appearance in Alexandria. Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas was partner of the other law firm.

The Labor Department has dished out more than $6 million to Pride, Inc., since it was hastily launched by the Johnson Administration in the summer of 1967 when tensions were running high and the capital appeared on the verge of racial violence. Since its founding Pride has been widely publicized, and also repeatedly denounced on numerous counts — payroll padding, kickbacks, embezzlement, fraud and other illegalities.

It is authoritatively understood that a federal grand jury is digging into the affairs and operations of Pride.

Last month Rep. Joel Broyhill (R-Va.), member of the District of Columbia Committee, demanded the General Accounting Office thoroughly investigate Pride, Inc. He had been seeking such a probe for a long time and finally obtained assurance from Comptroller General Elmer Staats that it would be made.

"We have worked out an arrangement, Staats wrote Broyhill, "whereby our representatives will monitor the Labor Department inquiries on a continuous basis with the objective of evaluating the adequacy of the work performed by the auditors and of any corrective action that may be required."

Broyhill also was informed by Senator John McClellan (D-Ark.), chairman of the Rackets Investigating Committee, that the Justice Department is investigating evidence involving Pride "to determine whether criminal prosecution for alleged corruption is warranted."

It is authoritatively understood that a federal grand jury is digging into the affairs and operations of Pride.

U.S. battle deaths for week drop 25 per cent

SAIGON (AP) — American battlefield deaths in Vietnam dropped 25 per cent last week to the lowest weekly toll of the Viet Cong spring offensive, the U.S. Command announced today. But the 266 Americans killed in action pushed the total for the war to within 300 of total combat fatalities in the Korean war.

The 266 dead—85 less than the week before—brought the total American combat dead for the eight-year-old war to 33,329. The total in the three-year Korean War was 33,629.

The U.S. Command also announced that 1,362 Americans were wounded in action last week, 61 more than the previous week. This brought the total American wounded reported in the war to 209,045.

In the first four weeks since the Viet Cong launched their spring offensive Feb. 23, 1,406 Americans have been killed. The heaviest toll was during the first week of the offensive, when 453 U.S. troops were killed.

A U.S. spokesman said apparently part of the reason for the reduction in the number of American deaths last week was that the enemy was not following up his nightly rocket and mortar attacks on U.S. bases with infantry assaults as frequently as he did earlier in the offensive. He said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops also were breaking off contact more quickly when engaged by sweeping American forces.

While U.S. casualties dropped last week, those of the South Vietnamese forces went up slightly and considerably exceeded the American total. The government said 337 of its soldiers were killed and 1,537 were wounded, compared with 325 killed and 1,156 wounded the week before.

The offensive continued to prove costly for the enemy, although his casualties also were considerably reduced. The allied commands reported 3,873 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed last week, compared to a revised total of 4,336 the week before.

By U.S. count, the enemy has lost 19,101 troops in the first four weeks of his offensive. South Vietnamese dead in that period total 1,442. With the 1,406 Americans killed, the allied total is 2,848 dead, or a kill ratio of about seven to one in favor of the South Vietnamese and Americans.

On the battlefield, meanwhile, 100 South Vietnamese soldiers made it to safety today after a two-day battle 30 miles north of Saigon. But 50 were still missing and 22 were dead.

An estimated 2,000 North Vietnamese regulars badly battered the strike force batalion of about 600 men before helicopters put down reinforcing troops. After the reinforcements landed, the survivors began making their way into the landing zone.

In addition to the 22 dead and 50 missing, more than 100 of the battalion and several advisers were wounded.

Myerson score Is on brains Plus beauty

NEW YORK (AP) — For a woman who once said that it's only the little frustrations that etch wrinkles on a face, Bess Myerson Grant has assured herself an unlined brow in her new role as New York's Commissioner for Consumer Affairs. The frustrations she is likely to experience might be enormous.

The 44-year-old former Miss America (1945) assumed her post early in March with all the enthusiasm she has shown for her past involvements. These include years of television appearances on "The Big Payoff," "I've Got a Secret" and the annual Miss America Pageants, New Year's Tournament of Roses and New York's Thanksgiving Day Parades.

Mrs. Grant has also worked for the handicapped and underprivileged and has served on the board of various philanthropic organizations.

The tall brunette mother of a 21-year-old daughter, Mrs. Grant was cited by Mayor Lindsay as a "charming and committed citizen of New York" who no doubt would be good at her job because she "looks like a woman, thinks, acts, works like a woman and is all woman."

Mrs. Grant insists that being a former beauty queen had little to do with her recent appointment but smiled mysteriously at the suggestion that it certainly might help in her work. "Miss America was only one year out of a long life. My public life has always been an extension of my personal interests.

"People recognize me from my years in television," Mrs. Grant said. "This eliminates the necessity of introducing myself. I want the consumer to know that somebody will be working actively on his behalf."

Gone is the old cliché that beauty and brains don't mix because, as Mrs. Grant pointed out, "There have been too many attractive women who have contributed effectively to the community."

When pressed about her qualifications for the job, Mrs. Grant replied that Mayor Lindsay thought she was qualified and added, "I grew up in a low income area and have always been concerned with prices and exploitation of the poor. Even now I'm very frugal."

Wearing a white wool, long sleeved dress with a gold pin at the waist, Mrs. Grant addressed a luncheon of the Better Business Bureau and drew hearty applause even though some of her comments should have made those businessmen squirm.

Mrs. Grant voiced her suspicions that sometimes businesses lobbied against the interest of the consumer. She is eager to do something about the installment plans that are often unfair to people in the ghettos.

"My greatest satisfaction as a woman is that I have been able to lead a full professional life and use it effectively in those fields that concerned me."

Lawyer Arnold Grant said that his wife's decision to accept the $25,000 position was strictly her own and he hoped that she would be happy. He added that her new role wouldn't disrupt the household any more than her previous commitment did, but that now we'll come home to a "slightly exhausted wife rather than a fresh one."

Cake-filled cone won't melt

Within those cones is chocolate cake piled high with fluffy icing and made festive with chocolate shot and pastel cake decorations. Begin with a mix-made batter, pour into ice cream cups and bake. Use about three tablespoons of batter in each cup, filling one-half full. Bake on baking pan or in muffin tins 25 to 30 minutes. Cane will rise to about the top of cups. Frost when cool. Use them for parties or even to surprise a youngster in his lunchbox.

HELOISE'S HINTS

Card file helps shopping

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR HELOISE: My sister and I recently had new babies and we both have older children in grade school that demand a lot of time and attention.

When we first came home from the hospital the meals were pretty hectic and not quite up to par.

Our husbands did the grocery shopping and we would invariably leave some ingredient off the list.

So, we hit upon the idea of making up menu cards, a complete meal to a card. Then we would list the needed ingredients for each meal on the back of the card (everything needed in each dish from soup to dessert).

This really saved time spent in planning and shopping for the week's meals. We could check the menu list against the items already in our pantry and then simply add what we needed to the grocery list. The job was done in no time flat, and we had everything we needed on the list. Dottie Clark

Dottie, I'd say you have the situation well in hand.

And give both new babies a big kiss and a hug from me. Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: My husband is a chef and what a headache it use to be to launder his hats. I tried everything and nothing worked.

Then I hit on a solution: First, of course, it must be starched as stiff as a board.

Then I stuff the top full of towels (I've stuffed as many as seven towels, depending on the size of the crown.)

Hang it on the line by the band and let it dry.

Then dampen the band with a cloth and press. The band is all that requires ironing. You'll get a most beautiful finish. The hat will stand alone on the shelf.

Oh me, I forgot to say you remove the towels!

Believe me, a chef or baker's wife will appreciate this. Mrs. E. C. Poole

Lunch idea

For a different luncheon, slice cooked potatoes and frankfurters and place on shredded lettuce, topped with your favorite salad dressing.

Labels, bags Can tell you Unseen secrets

By HILDEGARD HESSE
Extension Marketing Agent

When you go shopping, do you read the label on the food packages you buy?

Not while you're waiting in line to be checked out, or putting it on the pantry shelf, or when you open it for use. No - No. Before you put it in the shopping cart.

Hash, for example, usually contains meat and potatoes. But some kinds contain potatoes and meat. The label which says "meat and potatoes" tells you that meat is the main ingredient. The other label tells you you're buying more potatoes than meat.

Many food shoppers say they don't like having everything packaged. They like to see what they're buying. That's the way it used to be when the crackers came in a barrel and the wheel of cheese stood open on the counter. Of course they got a little dusty, and maybe the flies sampled them too.

Even fresh fruits and vegetables are getting into the pre-packaged act, and the experts say we'll see more and more lettuce, apples, oranges, potatoes and onions in packages rather than displayed in bulk for individual selection.

For example, onions: In mesh or film bags or overwrapped on fiberboard trays, it's possible for the variety and flavor characteristics to be clearly stated. Mild flavored Bermudas and sweet Spanish onions do their best work in salads, sandwiches and as french fried onions... but because Bermudas can be white or yellow or red and look very much like the super-strong Globe onions, and the sweet Spanish onions vary from white to yellowish-brown, it's a real help to have the name and suggested use printed on the package.

Pre-packaging also results in generally lower prices for onions and other fruits and vegetables so handled. Losses due to bruising are cut down.

Unusually large supplies of onions suggest that they ought to be unusually low in price. And they are. To take advantage of this pleasant situation, how about serving

CHEESE AND ONION TART
1 pastry-lined 9-inch pie dish
4 cups (1 quart) thin-sliced Sweet Spanish onions
3 tablespoons butter
4 slices bacon
1 cup shredded Swiss or Cheddar cheese
3 eggs

1½ cups rich milk, light evaporated milk
¼ teaspoon Tabasco sauce
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Line 9-inch pie dish with pastry, making a fluted edge. Place in refrigerator. Slice onions very thin. Start from the root end so that stem end serves as a handle. Cut slices in half. Melt butter in heavy frying pan; add onions and cook very slowly until limp and transparent but not brown. Set aside to cool. Fry bacon until brown but not quite cooked. Lift from fat; cut in 1-inch pieces. Shred cheese.

Whip eggs just until yolks and whites are blended. Add milk and seasonings. Place the cooled onions in the pastry shell; sprinkle over them the shredded cheese. Pour custard over onions and cheese. For a deeper filling, use 4 eggs and 2 cups rich milk. Top with bacon pieces.

Bake in a 450 degrees F. (hot) oven for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 325 degrees F. (moderately slow) and bake 25 to 30 minutes longer or until a silver knife inserted in the center of the custard comes out clean. Or use the one baking temperature of 400 degrees F. for about 40 minutes. Serve at once, cut in wedges. Makes 6 hearty servings.

Hawaii Chicken Wins prize

DETROIT — Redford Township resident Marianna Fortuna, who does printed circuit touchup work for Burroughs Corporation, was crowned "Queen of the Kitchen" today at a luncheon following Detroit Edison's annual Cook-Off for Women Who Work.

Miss Fortuna, who had been a finalist in the same contest in 1965 and had won third prize in 1966, titled her 1969 entry "Hawaii Chicken Exotic." She was judged best among the ten finalists who competed. Almost 400 recipes were submitted in the month-long contest.

A souvenir cookbook, with the recipes and pictures of the finalists, was distributed to luncheon guests and will be available at Edison offices throughout Southeastern Michigan.

Miss Fortuna's recipe follows:
HAWAII CHICKEN EXOTIC
4 cups cooked chicken, diced

MISS MARIANNA FORTUNA

1 can of cream of chicken soup
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 cup celery, finely chopped
1 cup water chestnuts, diced
3 hard cooked eggs (diced)
1 tablespoon crystallized ginger
2 tablespoons rice
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup livered almonds
Mix the two cans of soup, eggs, celery, chestnuts and ginger together; add to chicken. Place layer of rice seasoned with salt in bottom of shallow baking dish. Cover with chicken and sauce. Top with slivered almonds that have been sauteed in butter. Bake for 25 minutes in a 350 degree oven. Serves 6-8.

25 years Of service Recalled

Faith Lutheran Women's Guild held their 25th anniversary celebration on March 20 at the church. Recognition awards for 25 years of service to the guild went to three charter members, Mrs. Erna Elliott, Mrs. Elizabeth Ackerman and Miss Lena Schmidt.

Mrs. Myra Means, Guild president, told of some of the unique fund-raising projects that the ladies had engaged in over the years. Mrs. Ruth Merriman, secretary, read the guild's history.

Guests attending the dinner were Yoland Sawaya, Nona Dusterhoft, Susie Huffman, Jean Eckert, Juanita Hagemeier, Judy Jones, Mary Estey and Harriet Cordell.

Ypsilanti group Set for opera

A group of Ypsilantians are on committees seeking to promote interest in the May performances in Detroit of the Metropolitan Opera.

Mail orders are now being accepted for the operas to be presented May 26 through May 31 in the Masonic Temple Auditorium in Detroit.

For the Detroit Grand Opera Association, sponsor of the performances, the area director is Mrs. Harry Anderson of 5460 Geddes Rd.

On the women's committee, which aids in publicity, are Mrs. O. Blaine Ballard of Ann Arbor, Mrs. Alexander Dukay of Ypsilanti State Hospital, Mrs. Mary Louise Gerganoff of 1330 Huron River Dr., Miss Dorothy James, Mrs. Hoover H. Jordan, Mrs. Arthur

Blue cheese spread Keys evening snack

This spread improves with refrigerator storage. Blue Cheese Spread is good with fruit wedges, crackers, assorted nuts, date and nut squares and a beverage for an evening snack.

BLUE CHEESE SPREAD
1 wedge (3 ounces) cream cheese, refrigerator firm
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, brought to room temperature
2 tablespoons cognac
With a wooden spoon force blue cheese through a fine mesh medium-sized strainer. Blend with cream cheese and cognac, beating well with the spoon. Refrigerate in a tightly covered jar and allow flavors to blend at least one week before serving. If any liquid gathers at top of spread, stir it in before serving. Makes about 3/4 cup.

Note: If the blue cheese is well aged, crumbly and refrigerator-cold, you should have no trouble in forcing it through the strainer; this pureeing insures an extremely smooth spread.

Cook or drink

Experts say there is no such thing as a "cooking wine." They contend that wine which is not good enough to drink is not good enough for cooking.

Apology for singleness Goes to concerned pals

By CINDY PARMENTER
Denver Post

DENVER (AP) — I want to apologize for being single. This apology was not instigated by any great desire on my part to be married and have seven children. Instead, I want to apologize for the many problems my marital status causes my relatives, friends and business associates.

The whole question of my single state came into the spotlight again recently when my 15-year-old sister protested loudly that she's tired of having to tell people about her older sister. She explains that when her friends find out she is not an only child, they immediately assume her older sister is a married sister. Then she must admit, with great embarrassment, that her sister is over 21—never mind how much—works, and is not married.

"I just wish you would get married!" she says periodically as she stomps out of rooms.

My mother, being a gracious woman, is not quite that blunt about the whole thing but frequently mutters something about how nice it would be to have grandchildren.

who lives with girls. Of course, I haven't been able to get her approval to live with any nice young men either.

I also must tell how badly I feel about the problems endured by friends who devote so much of their time attempting to marry me off.

When they should be cleaning house or caring for their children, my housewife friends are badgering their husbands about any single chaps they might know.

When these women—their husbands also are involved—probably under pressure—find an eligible man, a meeting is planned. It's usually an intimate dinner for the young fellow, the married couple, who is going to chaperone the entire thing and me.

The advance description of the young man really could be patented because it is always the same.

They explain, "He is such a nice fellow. I know you are going to like him. A little quiet—means he is panicked out of his mind by women—but he is very pleasant. He isn't too tall—usually means five feet or under. He has a fine position where he collects things—he is a garbage man."

What really scares me is what they probably are telling him about me.

Of course, the evening is fun because it is so fascinating to try to talk to someone you have never met before. The fact that the only thing he says all evening is "Please, pass the butter," also makes it an especially intriguing experience.

Five generations gather

A five-generation gathering took place Sunday when three Port Huron steps in the family visited relatives in the area. At the Gilmore Rd. home of the senior member are (clockwise) Danny Kilbourn, six weeks, his mother, Mrs. Daniel Kilbourn, 19, and her father, Robert Gorham, all of Port Huron, Mrs. Sybil Gorham of Traverse City, and her mother, Mrs. Luscena Randall, 94, of 6104 Gilmore Rd. Mrs. Gorham was enroute from Florida, and visiting her daughter, Mrs. Lee Boatwright, formerly of Ypsilanti and now of Milan, and her sister, Mrs. Herbert Miller of 78 Wiard Rd. Mrs. Randall was born in the Ypsilanti area and has lived here all her life.

Men outdistance women On diet, but overeat

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Who make the best dieters, men or women? Surprisingly enough, men are proving to be the best dieters.

A woman will go on a diet at the drop of a hint, and far more women than men diet. But, once a man decides to reduce, he means business. Usually he diets because his doctor has advised him to bring his weight down and keep it there. His motivation is health.

Now let's ask a different question. Who control appetites better, men or women?

The women do. Women have what might be called an educated appetite. It has been pointed out that men become hungrier after the first few mouthfuls of food and tend to go on eating until they feel satisfied. Women stop eating not because they feel they have eaten enough but because they know they have.

Men are often fast eaters, and fast eating leads to overeating. One man explained ruefully that he eats so fast, he really doesn't taste the food. He has to have seconds to know what the meal tastes like. With fast eating it is easy to overshoot the mark and rush past the satiety signal.

On the quantity score, a reader passes along this idea: "Tell your dieters that the time to be altered is when the appetite first starts to get out of hand. Continued overeating creates a voracious appetite, for gradually it takes more food to give that nice full feeling."

Satisfaction with regard to a meal depends on a number of factors, and no small part is the pleasure you experience. A meal should appeal to all the senses. It should taste delicious, have an appetizing aroma, and pleasing texture and look attractive. All of this contributes to the feeling that you have dined well.

Meals should satisfy hunger and appease appetite without boosting calories beyond modern-day fuel requirements. Women appreciate the fact that tastes become keener when you substitute quality for quantity. On such fare you can enjoy good food without pangs of guilt or fear of fat.

The mechanism that brings about satiety takes time to become effective. When you know you have eaten sufficient food, stop eating. Get up from the table before you reach the full feeling and in thirty minutes you will not be hungry.

You have to experience this to believe it. Follow this practice and you can cut your appetite down to size. Then you will find satisfaction in stopping a meal short of that stuffed feeling.

Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for New Calorie Chart with Protective Food Pattern. Address request to Ida Jean Kain, care of The Press. Post card requests cannot be answered.

Lutheran Circles To meet

April circle meetings for Emmanuel Lutheran Church will have as lesson theme "The Covenant is still in effect."

The theme continues Study of God's covenant with Abraham.

Three of the circles will meet next week — Anna, Claudia and Esther.

Anna members will meet in the church lounge at 9 a.m. Tuesday with Mrs. Eugene O'Leary as hostess and Mrs. Walter Gessert, study leader. Claudia members will meet Wednesday at 9 a.m. in the lounge with Mrs. David Duey hosting and Mrs. Lloyd Hall leading study. For Esther members, Mrs. Irvn Blasey will be hostess in the lounge at 1:15 Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. Charles Stokes as leader.

On April 8, Dorcas Circle will meet in the lounge at 1:15 p.m. with Mrs. Clifton Geer, hostess, and Mrs. Carl Miller, leader. Hannah members will meet April 10 at 1:15 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Guy Ableson at 755 N. Redwood Ave. for a lesson by Mrs. Karl Klaffke. Mary members will gather in the lounge at 8 p.m. April 10, with Mrs. Ida Sanderson as hostess and Mrs. Harvey Dicks as Bible study leader.

Wives cooling To computer's Part in life

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Most wives aren't thrilled by the prospect of a future in which most of their household tasks will be done by a computer. They realize that a computer, if it breaks down, is one machine they can't fix with a hairpin.

Weight lifters are the most introverted of athletes, even more so than professional baseball pitchers.

You can bet that if a man has more than three kinds of medicine in his office desk drawer, he's already looking forward to retirement.

The older and richer a fellow gets, the more he likes to look back and speak wistfully of the deprivations of his childhood. He gets more real pleasure out of recalling them than he does enjoying his present wealth.

Don't you hate to eat in restaurants that have imperious hatcheck girls? They put you in a bad mood even before the headwaiter can give you a seat too near the kitchen.

The biggest tyrants in the average office are those who are most henpecked at home.

Nothing has less personality than a breaded veal cutlet warmed over after sitting in the refrigerator for two days. Any husband served one should have legal grounds for divorce.

You never know how dumb a woman can be until you meet a smart one who likes to show off her intelligence.

I automatically trust a man who wears suspenders. Anyone that old-fashioned just couldn't be a modern successful crook.

One of the big differences between men and women is that two men can work in a kitchen together and emerge still friendly toward each other.

No one is welcomed more to his face and talked about more behind his back than a gossip. But at least isn't he less of a hypocrite than the rest of us?

An old-timer is a guy who can remember when he felt safe as long as he had a buck in his pocket.

Who can look at pigeons conducting their courtships in spring without sighing inside about some girl he wooed and lost in his own youth?

It is hard to like a man with prejudices unless he happens to share our own.

The chore that secretaries dislike performing most is having to remember to buy the boss's wife flowers on her birthday. They always feel the flowers are going to the wrong girl.

Boys' Club Moms plan 2 events

A new member was welcomed by the Mothers' Service Club of the Boys' Club of Ypsilanti when the club met on Monday night with 15 members present.

The newcomer is Mrs. Jack Bostwick.

The group decided to have a bake sale at Arnet's April 19 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. to earn funds which are given to the Boys' Club at year-end.

For the carnival being planned for May 24, the club decided on eight types of games which will be played.

Also planned are booths selling cotton candy, balloons, bake goods, white elephant items, snacks and sandwiches.

Next meeting will be April 7 at 7:30 p.m. at the Boys' Club. Anyone interested in attending may contact Mrs. Warren Wyman at 482-2461.

Area injury accidents

Rita K. Kaul, 18, of 1278 Fall River Rd. (driver), Carla Wright, 8, of 21065 Janet St., cuts; Tuesday night at 7:20 p.m. their car struck an icy spot while coming around a curve on the Willow Run Expressway, went out of control and struck a guard rail, State Police said.

James E. McIntosh, 71, of Calhoun, (driver), cuts, Marie McIntosh, 61, same address, pains; Tuesday night their car went off I-94 while westbound on icy pavement.

Cheng K. Chou, 29, of E.

Lunde, Board Praise Firemen

The Ypsilanti Township Fire Department has been praised for its actions in fighting the epidemic of grass fires.

The praise came from Supervisor Fred H. Lunde and was echoed by the Township Board.

Fire Chief Robert Fuller said his men had answered 180 alarms in March and 305 so far this year.

He said his department was having trouble in keeping trucks going because of a difficulty in getting parts. He cited a 1961 model truck which was sidelined because the brake line was out. He said one was finally found in a small garage in Detroit.

The sport now known as lacrosse was originally called baggataway by American Indians who played it.

Lansing (driver); Mei-Sheng Chou, 26, same address, pains; Tuesday night while westbound on I-94 their car ran off the road and struck a guard rail, according to State Police.

Dale A. Straub, 22, of Taylor (driver), Harold E. Lanning, 41, of 625 N. Mansfield St. (other driver) pains; city police said Straub had stopped for a stop sign at Washtenaw Ave. and Hewitt Rd. and started across Washtenaw when the two cars collided.

Herman W. Steele, 27, of 3599 Stone School Rd., Ann Arbor (driver) pains; John M. McCalla, 18, of 4805 Stone School, (other driver) pains; McCalla's auto was westbound turning into Ellsworth St. at State St. Tuesday at 5:15 p.m. according to sheriff's deputies, and cut too short, striking the Steele car.

William B. Sutherland, 59, of 90 W. Wabash St., Belleville, (driver) cuts, his tractor trailer went out of control on US 23 east of Pontiac Trail Tuesday night at 9:30 p.m. and jack-knifed.

Barbara J. Vanassche, 19, of 4633 Monroe St., Dearborn Hgts., (driver) bruises, sheriff's deputies said she was westbound on I-94 Tuesday at 6:45 p.m. and lost control on ice as she crossed over a bridge. The car struck a guard rail.

William R. Caldwell, 38, of 2728 Beacon Hill Rd., Ann Arbor (driver); Richard D. Shafor, 27, of Jackson, (other driver) pains; Shafor, according to sheriff's deputies, stopped on I-94 Tuesday night at 8:30 after being directed to do so by a police officer at the scene of the previous accident. His car was struck in the rear by the Caldwell automobile.

Frustration to weaken U.S. Viet stand?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite recurrent reports of private negotiations to end the Vietnam war, administration leaders foresee a long, frustrating path to peace and fear impatience can weaken the U.S. bargaining power.

This was the view of a State Department official on the eve of Secretary of State William P. Rogers' first appearance before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today for a report on policy.

The official, speaking to a group of newsmen, said negotiations to end the war will take a considerable amount of time and warned that the side which is most impatient usually comes off second best.

This cautious view came at a time of rising optimism, given the impetus earlier this week when President Nixon indicated in a Washington speech that private talks—which he favors as the best way to end the war—might already be under way.

But even while the cautious view was being put out at a high level, optimistic reports remained alive.

A responsible congressional official said he had been informed private talks were being held outside Paris where the formal negotiations have been going on—apparently fruitlessly—for three months.

This official said the private sessions were showing some promise of possible early developments.

The State Department official said he believed that North Vietnam had not yet accepted the principle of an independent South Vietnam. South Vietnamese independence is a declared objective of the United States in the war and in peace negotiations.

The official, who could not be named under rules of the briefing, said the administration's policy is to do everything possible to get a negotiated peace, covering a mutual withdrawal of all outside forces from South Vietnam and a secure boundary between the North and South.

The settlement, he said, should also include firm agreements to end troop infiltration from North to South Vietnam over the jungle trails of neighboring Laos. He pictured security for Laos as essential to a durable settlement in Vietnam.

When asked why the United States did not end the war by invading and conquering North Vietnam the official said U.S. policy is to try to avoid escalation.

Air war outside South Vietnam cloaked in secrecy

SAIGON (AP) — A year after President Johnson's order limiting the bombing of North Vietnam, the air war outside South Vietnam is as lethal as ever but almost totally hidden by official secrecy.

The target now is the patchwork of camouflaged roads known as the Ho Chi Minh trail, twisting down through the tribal mountain country of supposedly neutral Laos.

That has been the steady shift since Johnson began pulling back the bombers to get peace talks moving in Paris—restricting the bombing to below the 20th parallel in his March 31 order and ending it completely over North Vietnam Nov. 1. Neither order mentioned Laos. The effect, however, was to concentrate more and more planes in attacks on the Ho Chi Minh trail, the last remaining area where bombing could get at the major enemy supply line. As the warplanes concentrated, so did the increasingly sophisticated enemy defense network. Mobile, radar-controlled 52mm antiaircraft guns now accompany major supply movements down the trail. Even heavier guns are at so-called chokepoints. Lighter 37mm guns are all over the place. "These aren't just jungle raids any more," one flier reported. "There are no 'soft spots.' It's just as bad as it was up north." Officials refuse to give figures but the lowest responsible estimate of planes lost in the past five months is almost 100 Air Force planes, mostly F105 Thunderchiefs. Navy losses are not known but are very much lower since the Air Force is drawing about 85 per cent of the missions. One knowledgeable officer reported the loss rate has now settled down to about four planes weekly. The number of pilots lost is similarly classified. An analysis of Pentagon statistics indicates about 45 pilots missing in action in Laos since Nov. 1. Some sources in Vientiane, a capital of rumors and mysterious people loosely labeled Communist, non-Communist and neutralist, say as many as 100 pilots may be in jungled prison camps of the Pathet Lao, the Laotian version of the Viet Cong. These include pilots downed over several years. None of these loss figures can be verified from official sources. Neither will officers in Saigon give any firm estimate of enemy losses. It is worth an officer's job—and perhaps his career—to be quoted about the campaign in Laos. In public, spokesmen give a standard reply to all queries: "At the request of the royal Laotian government, we fly some reconnaissance missions over Laotian territory. These are escorted by armed aircraft with instructions to return fire if fired upon."

This is the official explanation of an air campaign on some days involving the warplanes of three aircraft carriers, perhaps 200 Air Force fighter-bombers in Thailand, assorted reconnaissance and electronic flights, plus a half dozen or more raids by B52 Stratofortresses, essentially the same force, without the B52s, used in North Vietnam.

No word of this activity appears in communiques issued from U.S. headquarters in Saigon. The neutrality of Laos, the little kingdom of royal elephants, was always precarious. It also was frequently violated.

In the late 1950s and early 1960s the fiction of armed reconnaissance flights grew with the political troubles of Laos. While attempting to prop up the outwardly neutralist regime in Vientiane, the United States began aiding the Laotian air force and furnishing pilots for bombing missions against the Pathet Lao. With the acquiescence of the Laotian government this has grown into the current bombing campaign.

Keeping the campaign more or less under wraps is possible because the raids mainly hit a 250-mile stretch paralleling Vietnam which is sparsely populated, largely by backward tribal groups.

In Ypsilanti:

Inexpensive home hard to find

Reahard must live within walking distance of any job.

Mrs. Reahard praised Arlan's. She said the firm had offered her a job as soon as they rebuild.

The Reahards have been plagued by bad luck and blessed by eager, intelligent, clean and good-looking children.

Mrs. Reahard said she always worked at night while her husband was at home with the children. Then she could be with them during the day.

The father has had his ups and downs. At 14, he started working for Kroger's where he learned how to cut meat. "Food has always been his line," says Mrs. Reahard.

During World War II he was an Army mess sergeant.

For a time he operated a family grocery store, Superfood Market at Emerick and Davis Sts.

"But then," says Mrs. Reahard, "the big chains moved in and my husband was losing his shirt and had to get out. He couldn't meet the taxes and insurance."

At the same time the Reahards lost their home on Hawthorne Ave. That was 10 years ago and Mrs. Reahard says "it has been 10 years of hell."

The Reahards are Catholics, parishioners of St. John's Church. Four of their children go to St. John's High or Elementary Schools.

Actually, there are seven Reahard children. The oldest is Mrs. Sally Marken, 21, who lives on Turtle Creek Rd. The others live at home.

They are Dennis, 19, a student at Washtenaw Community College who helps pay his way by correcting papers; Richard, 15, Robert, 14, Julie, 10, Timothy, 7, all students at St. John's, and Mary, 6, in the kindergarten at Woodruff Elementary School.

Mrs. Reahard says members of the church have been wonderful in helping them try to find a home.

Chester Dixon, head of urban relocation for Ypsilanti, said he had notified the Reahards six months ago that they would have to move and that they would be offered emergency housing.

Mrs. Reahard disagreed. She said they hadn't been told until two weeks ago and that the emergency housing was a 2-bedroom place in a neighborhood where she didn't want to raise her children.

However, she said, they would take it if they had to. She said Dixon was a very kind and considerate man.

Mrs. Reahard said "it is impossible to pay the prices for houses they are asking these days if we are to eat. Our food bill is $10 a day."

She said they didn't have the money for a down payment on a house.

She said most of the rent apartments won't allow children or pets. The Reahards are the type of family that take in stray animals — two cats stalk their living room.

Meanwhile, the Reahard home is stacked with packed boxes as the family waits for someplace to go.

Our men in Service

Capt. William A. Carnegie, son of Andrew Carnegie of 893 Cliffs Dr., has won the Distinguished Flying Cross for his heroism in air action over Vietnam.

The Air Force says Carnegie distinguished himself as a U-10 pilot. Despite intense automatic weapons fire, Carnegie completed a special mission over Bing Duong Province, urging the enemy to give up.

He now is a student at the Air Force Institute of Technology at the University of Arizona in Tucson where he is taking up systems engineering.

In ceremonies on the U of A campus, Carnegie recently was awarded the fifth cluster of his Air Medal. The clusters were awarded for his performance as a combat crew member and his "outstanding airmanship and courage exhibited in the successful accomplishment of important missions under extremely hazardous conditions." The clusters were awarded for a period of service in Southeast Asia from October, 1967, to June, 1968.

The following men from the area are in basic training at the Army Training Center at Ft. Knox, Ky.:

Craig A. Burg, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Burg of 2010 George Ave.,

George W. L. Brown, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown of 9250 Macey Rd., Willis, Danny R. Hensley, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hensley of 1233 Commonwealth Ave.,

David M. Reilly, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reilly of 51074 Mott Rd., Belleville, and George M. Haynie, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Haynie of 3375 E. Michigan Ave.

They will spend two months learning the fundamental skills of today's soldier.

Lt. Robert O. Rice, 24, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald I. Rice of 885 Cliffs Dr., has completed an ordnance officer basic course at the Army Ordnance School, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

He received nine weeks of training in the ordnance mission of supplying and maintaining the Army's weapons and combat vehicles.

Airman I-C Dan B. Niga, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore D. Niga of 14442 Tuttle Hill Rd., Willis, has received the Air Medal at Nha Trang AB, Vietnam for air action in Southeast Asia.

Airman Niga was cited for his outstanding airmanship and courage as an aircraft mechanic on successful and important missions under hazardous conditions. He is a 1965 graduate of Milan High School.

His wife, Linda, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Merritt of 9535 Stony Creek Rd., Milan.

P.O. 3-C Michael T. Piper, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence T. Piper of 14641 Elwell Rd., Belleville, helped to conduct Patrol Squadron 24's first "Open House" at the U.S. Naval Air Station, Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico.

Despite adverse wintry weather, approximately sixty members and dependents turned out to tour the display.

The purpose of the display was to familiarize the Navy dependent's with the squadron's mission and the roles members of the squadron play in accomplishing this mission.

The appointment of Peter J. Moir, Jr., 26, of 120 S. Prospect St. to the rank of first lieutenant in the U.S. Army Reserve has been announced.

A native of Detroit and a graduate of Eastern Michigan University, Moir was commissioned a second lieutenant in December, 1965, after completing Officer Candidate School at Fort Benning, Georgia.

Staff Sgt. Dean M. Mason, the son of Mrs. D. Muszynski of 1004 Juneau Rd., is a member of the 6100th Support Wing at Tachikawa AB, Japan, that has earned the U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

The sergeant, a graduate of Ypsilanti High School, attended Eastern Michigan University.

His wife, Linda, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bevier of 10495 Whittaker Rd.

Two brothers indicted for highway department wrongdoing

LANSING (AP) — Two brothers — a former State Highway Department employee and an Ohio businessman — today stand charged with conspiracy in the first indictment handed down in a grand jury investigation into alleged wrongdoing in the highway department.

One-man grand juror Marvin Salmon filed the indictment Wednesday, naming John E.

Miller, 58, of Lansing, former property management engineer for the department, and his brother William, president of York Realty and Decorating Co., Inc., of Columbus, Ohio.

John Miller, now working with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, was charged with accepting more than $25,000 in bribes for the execution and renewal of a lease for a garage by the highway department in Lansing.

He also was charged with using a document to deceive his employer, conspiring to have his brother offer a bribe and committing perjury while testifying before the grand jury.

John Miller, a tall, greying man with rimless glasses, surrendered himself March 18, Salmon told a news conference.

At the arraignment Wednesday, he demanded examination, tentatively set for April 4, and was released on $1,000 bond.

William Miller, charged with conspiring and giving his brother the bribe money, has not yet been arraigned.

He is "not considered a fugitive," said Leo Farhat, special prosecutor for the investigation. "We know where he is." Authorities said plans were being made to bring William Miller to Michigan for arraignment, although the date of that proceeding was not yet known.

A conspiracy charge against both men alleged they worked to obtain "substantial sums" for Mr. and Mrs. John Miller and their two children.

John Miller was employed by the highway department from July 15, 1957, through April 26, 1963. Prior to that time he had worked in the State Department of Administration.

With the highway department, he supervised the administration of highway-owned facilities such as sign shops and maintenance garages.

Salmon indicated that he had "pretty well wrapped up" taking testimony in his investigation but declined to speculate whether further indictments would be issued.

"I can't comment," he said, citing the secrecy veil imposed by laws governing grand jury investigations.

Farhat said he expected the investigation to conclude June 20.

Former Gov. George Romney and Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley pe-tioned the Ingham County Circuit Court last June, asking for the probe.

Salmon said some of the charges, dating back to March 19, 1963, were made at this time because of the Michigan statute of limitations. Others, he said, could have been delayed, but "the grand jury felt that all counts should be lodged against (John) Miller at this time."

Several small Detroit law firms accused of compensation fraud

DETROIT (AP) — A small group of law firms in the Detroit area is involved in a scheme to bilk large corporations and the city of Detroit out of millions of dollars in workmen's compensation claims, according to a state official.

The compensation racket "must be stopped and stopped now," said Burke L. Dailey, director of the State Workmen's Compensation Bureau.

Dailey said in a news conference that it appeared only about 10 law firms were handling the bulk of fraudulent claims, but berated the Michigan Bar for being slow to act despite its knowledge of the situation.

"What they are doing is the lowest form of ambulance chasing," Dailey said of the 10 firms, which he declined to name.

In addition to the guilty firms, Dailey said, the racket involves physicians who supply phony medical reports to confirm heart, lung and back ailments which are said to be work-connected.

The charge also is aimed at personnel workers, local union officers and stewards who allegedly solicit clients for the law firms.

The largest victims of the relatively new racket are the major auto companies and their suppliers and the City of Detroit, all of which have state permission to underwrite their own workmen's compensation insurance.

Smaller businesses are required to purchase unemployment coverage through insurance companies.

General Motors wrote the State Bar a year ago after benefits paid to retirees had shot from $120,000 in 1962 to $3 million in 1967.

"The number of retiree claims against GM has increased 11,000 per cent in seven years," said GM Vice President Earl R. Bramblett. "The pace is not slowing down."

"These firms are flooding the big companies that can most afford to pay," said one attorney. "What they shoot for is settlements. They know that litigation is expensive and that ultimately, the company will want to take the settlement route."

The Michigan Manufacturers Association says unemployment compensation insurance premiums have shot up 43.6 per cent since 1965 and have become a factor in the stalling of industrial expansion in the state.

My flight from doubt

By MAJ. GEN.

JOHN B. MEDARIS,
U.S. Army, Retired

I have a word for all those questioning people who are dissatisfied with their faith, or their lack of faith. Who go to church, but come out feeling pretty much the way they went in.

The word is: "Wait!" Wait, because God's love for you may be stronger than all your skepticism, your hesitancy, your doubts.

Many of us, through ignorance or arrogance or stupidity, keep running from God's love as fast as we can.

My own flight began when I was a child. As a Methodist, I went to Sunday school. But I was forced to. There might be a Supreme Being, I conceded, but religion was not for me. I was sure that I was more intelligent, more energetic and more competitive than anyone around. I could paddle my own canoe.

For the next few decades I did just that. I enlisted in the Marines at the age of 16, left in 1928, went back into military service as an Army officer in 1939.

I was impatient, hard-driving, self-centered. I felt that I constantly had to prove my superiority and I didn't care how I did it. As a career soldier, I was a success. As a human being, well, I don't enjoy thinking about it.

All this time I was aware that something — luck or fate or chance — was favoring me. I came through three wars, including 300 days of combat in World War II, without a scratch. The thought sometimes crossed my mind that perhaps there was a Higher Power which was keeping me intact because there was some important job that I was destined to do.

After the war I was handed the most challenging job of my life: setting up a new Army agency at the Redstone Arsenal in Alabama to develop the Jupiter missile and field the Redstone, the great rocket that was eventually to carry the free world's first satellite into orbit.

Within weeks after assuming command, I took time out for a routine physical examination — and was told I had cancer. This was a terrific jolt. But prompt surgery seemed to eliminate the trouble. I was able to go on with the job.

Now I was more convinced than ever that this task was the purpose for which my life had been spared so often. As proof of this, I began to be strongly aware that when problems were thrust upon me, problems too complex for any one man to handle, all I had to do was ask for help and listen for it — and I would get it.

My staff also became aware of this. They would watch me go to the window, stand there for a few moments, then come back and say something like, "We'd better not go down this road right now...my warning bells are ringing."

Sometimes this guidance was affirmative. Then we would go down that road, whatever it was. And in a proportion far higher than any mortal man could hope to achieve alone, those decisions proved right. That was one reason why, when Sputnik I went up, we were able to counter so quickly with Explorer I.

By 1962 I had retired from the Army and I formed my own company in the field of space technology. My wife and I built a house near Orlando, Florida. We were looking forward to the best years of our life together when suddenly in 1964, like lightning out of a black cloud, cancer struck me once again.

This time, I was told, it was bone cancer. The X-rays showed that it was scattered throughout the pelvic area. The doctor said he could help relieve the pain, but that there was nothing that could be done about the cancer itself.

He gave me between a year and a year and a half to live. In the Army you learn to accept things stoically. I knew that the members of the little church we had joined were praying for men and I appreciated it. But I didn't put too much stock in such prayers. I had seen those X-rays.

Then, in rapid succession, two things happened. First a visitor stopped by our house and left a book called "God Is Able" by Dr. John Large. I never got beyond the first chapter, but I didn't have to.

Reading those words, I was struck by the overwhelming conviction that God not only is, but that He can do anything He chooses to do, that He can and does intervene in human life.

The result of this sudden, almost blinding, flash of insight was that I stopped being doubtful about the power of prayer and began to ask urgently for help.

Next we were invited to a friend's house to meet a housewife who, we were told, had a special gift of healing. I had always looked askance at anything in the realm of spiritual healing. But somehow I knew that I had to go.

I not only went, I found myself asking for help. And when this housewife, who seemed to be the most normal and good-humored of people, put her hands on my head and said a short prayer, I felt as if 2,000 volts of electricity shot through me, leaving me stunned and weak and somehow different.

As Francis Thompson says

in "The Hound of Heaven":

"Yet ever and anon a trumpet sounds
"From the hid battlements of Eternity..."

That night, such a trumpet sounded for me. After all the years of running and hiding, of doubting and questioning, I let go of the last tattered shreds of ego and surrendered myself, body, mind and soul to Jesus Christ. "My life is Yours," I said to Him. "Take what's left of it and use it in any way You want."

After that, my next medical examination showed no further growth of the cancer. The doctors could not understand this, since the rate of progression in bone cancer of this type has been quite well-established.

Subsequent X-rays showed that the cancer was regressing. Today — three years later after the date when the disease should have killed me — no lesions remain except for a trace of the largest one that was there originally.

What does this mean? To me it means that God's unbelievably patient and tolerant and understanding love will pursue a man — even a man as full of the sin of self as I was — until it catches up with him.

Next — Jeanne Murray Hill, Arizona nurse, tells how a late airline flight enabled her to perform an act of mercy.

Midwestern to be honored By consulting engineers

Midwestern Consulting, Inc., at 804 Railroad St. has been notified that it will receive an award of excellence from the Consulting Engineers Council of Michigan.

The award will be made at an awards dinner at 6 p.m. Saturday in the Sheraton Motor Inn in Ann Arbor.

The award is for a fountain overflow structure designed for the Geddes Lake townhouses between Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor.

Huron Relays to begin tomorrow

127 high schools from Michigan and Ohio compete

Like the robin signals spring, the Huron Relays of tomorrow and Saturday will trumpet the opening of another high school track season for Michigan and Ohio youngsters.

Some 127 schools from the two-state area will be vying for laurels in the two-day extravaganza at Eastern Michigan's Bowen Field House. The action gets under way at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow when 54 Class B teams swing into action.

The meet, sanctioned by the Michigan High School Athletic Association and the National Federation of State High School Athletic Association, will continue at 6 p.m. tomorrow with the finals in Class B.

According to Meet Director Bruce Waha of Redford High School, the times at which particular events will get under way remains unchanged from last year, when Shelby, Ohio High carried off the laurels. Shelby and another Ohio school, Clyde, were truly the class of the field during the 14th annual meet, as the winner rolled up 64 1-5 points and Clyde, 36.

Top area school a year ago was Willow Run, buoyed by Dave Hart's victory in the 60-yard dash then a victory by the 880-yard relay quartet of Hart, Larry Smith, Jerry Wilson and John Baskin.

Seventy-three Class A schools will enter the Bowen Field House spotlight Saturday, beginning at 12:30 p.m. They'll be vying to snare the title won last year by Pontiac Central.

As in Class B, times will correspond with those of last year. The finals session will begin at 6 p.m. and continue until approximately 9:30 p.m.

Tickets for all sessions will be available at Bowen Field House on the days of the events.

Odds 'n Ends

A collection of the notes that have been piling up on the sports spindle:

Eastern Michigan swimming Coach Mike Jones was a worried man for a while last weekend. So worried, in fact, that he finally sought out the director of the NAIA championship swim meet and put the question to him:

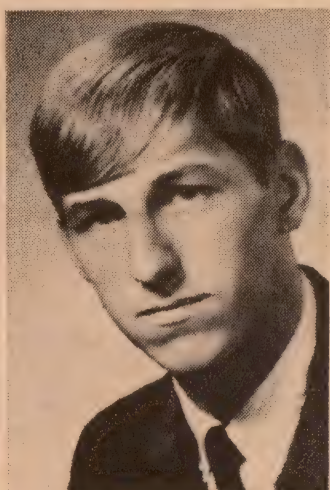

"Are you sure this pool is the right length?"

The coach of the national champion Hurons let out a sigh of relief when he was assured the George Williams College pool is 75 feet, 1 1/4 inches long — actually 1 1/4 inches longer than it need be. Because with that knowledge he could come back to Ypsilanti with a group of kids who, by performance, are the most fantastic swimmers Eastern Michigan has ever known.

They made a shambles of the Huron recordbook when they bettered 15 marks. As phenomenal as that may seem, however, it doesn't hold a match to what the group of 18 did to its personal all-time bests.

MIKE JONES

RICHARD HASKINS

The 18 entered events a total of 64 times, and mangled their best-ever performances 62 times.

Why? Well, Jones can, of course, only theorize. He suggests that the swimmers were undoubtedly psyched up for the team title race. Also, the George Williams College pool is what they refer to as "fast" — design, etc., lead to better times.

The efforts of the Hurons were not only outstanding by EMU standards, but also by NAIA standards, and 12 of the locals came away with all-American status. Included in that group are former Ypsilanti High swimmer Jeff Huxley and Roosevelt alumnus Dennis Betts.

Huxley gained his honors in a variety of ways. He was a member of the record-setting 400-yard Medley Relay team, clocked in 3:39.10, swam on both the 400 and 800-yard freestyle relay teams finishing third, and finished third in the finals of the 100-yard freestyle race. His 48.66 seconds time in a preliminary heat is an EMU varsity record for the 100 freestyle.

Betts, meanwhile, was also a member of the medley relay quartet. In addition, he established a varsity record of 1:02.85 with a fourth place in the 100 breaststroke and briefly held the NAIA record in the 200-yard breaststroke with a 2:15.23. He finished second in that event in the finals.

Huxley and Betts will be among some 70 Eastern Michigan athletes honored next Tuesday at a banquet at the Washtenaw Country Club. Dave Diles, Detroit television personality, will be guest speaker at the affair for Hurons who participated in NAIA tournaments and meets this year. Tickets, at $10 apiece, are on sale to the public at the Sports Information Office in Bowen Field House.

Eau Claire's Richard Haskins, a 6-2, 215-pound fullback, has signed a letter of intent to Eastern Michigan University.

The most valuable player on his high school team this season is "a very versatile player who could find a home at any number of positions," EMU football Coach Danny Boisture says. "I am extremely pleased that a boy of Haskins' calibre has selected EMU."

Haskins gained 605 yards rushing and caught 22 passes for 356 yards during his season year, all this good for 13 TDs. During his junior year when he was employed at wingback, he caught 42 passes for 40 yards.

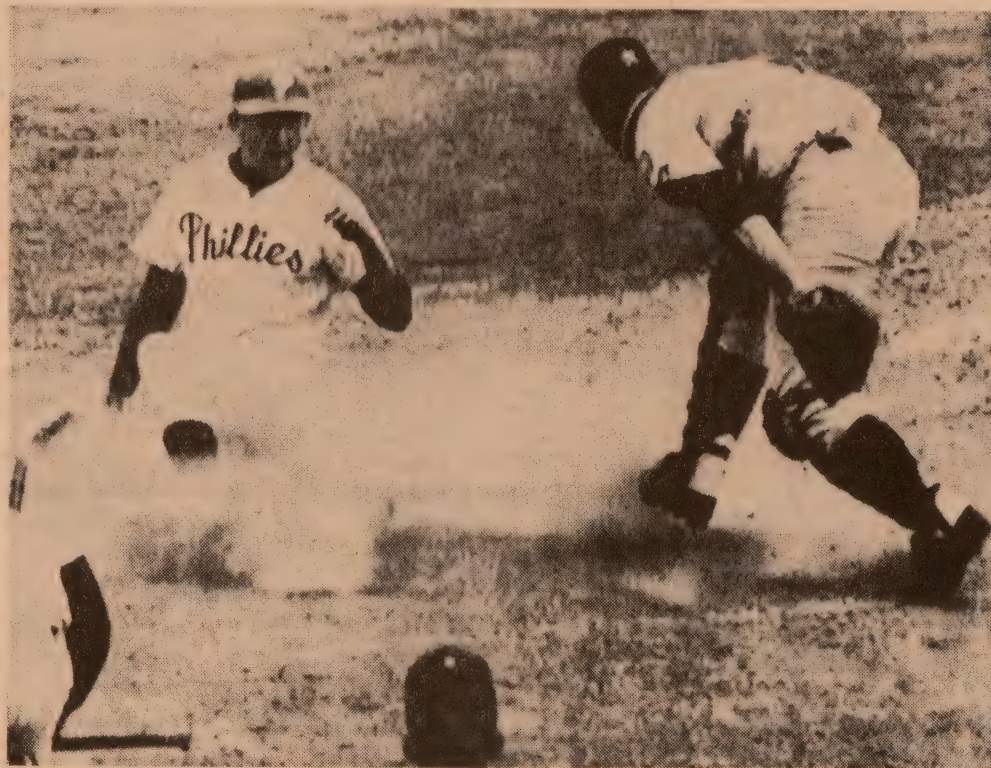

He is also a 3.7 grade average student and was the Salutatorian of his class.

Basketball coaches Jim Dutcher of Eastern Michigan and Dick Ouellette of Ypsilanti High are on the speaking agenda for Saturday at the second annual high school "Coach of the Year Clinic" at the Pick Fort Shelby Hotel in Detroit.

Dutcher will speak at 9 a.m. on the Eastern man-to-man offense and will introduce a training film produced by EMU. Ouellette, meanwhile, will discuss the topic, "Developing high school offense."

Don't forget next Monday's appearance of the Harlem Globetrotters at the Michigan Events Building in Ann Arbor. They'll begin their world-famous act at 7:30 p.m. Advance tickets are on sale at the University of Michigan Athletic Ticket Office at 1000 S. State in Ann Arbor. Proceeds will go to the Michigan athletics fund.

Bobby Milton, one of the Globetrotters, has come to town early and tomorrow will conduct a basketball clinic at 4 p.m. at the Ann Arbor YMCA. Tickets for this no charge, can be obtained at Lee Olds or at the YMCA.

Tigers are worried

As pitching declines

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—"It's a little embarrassing when you're the World Champions," reflected Detroit Tigers Manager Mayo Smith Wednesday after shoddy pitching and worse hitting left his team with a 7-2 exhibition loss to the New York Yankees.

"I mean, it kind of hurts your pride."

The Tigers collected just three hits from Yankee pitchers, and only one of them was given up by rookie Bill Burbach, who hurled the first six innings for the Yanks.

Norm Cash hit a short single, Dick McAuliffe grounded a ball through the infield and Don Wert blooped a wind-wafted triple into the right field corner.

"It's obvious the hitters aren't ready," commented batting coach Wally Moses. "We're not ready for the fast ball. We only hit one ball hard today, and that one was caught."

"I'm not worried about the hitters," Smith said. "They'll hit, I'm more concerned about the pitching. We haven't looked this bad in my three years."

The only sparkle on the mound this spring has been from World Series hero Mickey Lolich and two left-handed rookies, Mike Kilkenny and Fred Scherman.

John Hiller, who built up a 9-6 record last season in starting and relief assignments, has a 13.50 earned run average in action this spring.

Workhorse Earl Wilson has a 7.11 ERA, last year's 31-game winner Denny McLain has a relatively low 5.40 and veteran reliever Elroy Face is on shaky ground in his bid for a berth with the Bengals, sporting a 7.00 ERA.

Face allowed five hits and four runs against the Yankees Wednesday.

"You just can't turn this bad pitching off and good pitching on as soon as the season starts," Smith said. "But I expect them to be ready when the pressure is on."

Kilkenny and Scherman, both southpaws from the Toledo Mud Hens, have kept their ERAs low this spring. Kilkenny, who had a 2.32 average at Toledo, has been 2.00 on the mound this spring. Scherman, who sported a 1.76 with the Mud Hens, has an exhibition average of 3.38.

Dick Radatz, trying for a comeback as a relief pitcher, looked sharp in one inning against the Yankees, although he walked one man.

"He's got a fighting chance to make the club," Smith said. "The choice of the final two or three pitchers will go down to the wire."

Eventually, Smith said, the roster will be pared down to 11 pitchers, two catchers, six infielders and five outfielders.

With Tuesday's sale of Don Pepper to the Montreal Expos, the Tigers' infield appears set. Dave Campbell, who played at the Toledo farm club last season is the utility infielder with capabilities at second, third, first and catcher.

Littler returns

To golf tour

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Gene Littler is back on the golf tour today after a month's idleness but it isn't the $40,000 first prize that has lured him from the home comforts of LaJolla, Calif.

"I thought I should get a couple of tournaments under my belt before the Masters," the mild-mannered, 38-year-old stylist explained. "Sure, I like to win money but there are other things more important. I don't let it rule my life."

Littler, who with $32,428 was the year's leading money winner until overtaken by Miller Barber last week, is one of the favorites in the $200,000 National Airlines Open, starting today over the country club of Miami.

The favorites' list was reduced by the withdrawal of Lee Trevino, the U.S. Open champion who accidentally got his left thumb jammed in a door, but the 155-man field still ranks as one of the toughest in years.

It includes Bill Casper, the 1968 leading money winner; Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Julius Boros, Bob Goalby and Sam Snead.

Of all the affluent pros, who strut around in their expensive slacks and fleecy sweaters, Littler is the most inconspicuous and perhaps the most underrated, although he has won 21 tournaments and is reputed to have the soundest swing in the business. This year he won at Phoenix and finished second at San Diego, collecting $37,500 in two games.

Leafs top Montreal, Need tie

Wings virtually Eliminated

By The Associated Press
The Detroit Red Wings find themselves in even worse position than when the Detroit Tigers trailed St. Louis three games to one in baseball's World Series last fall.

And the Tigers pulled one of sport history's all-time comebacks, winning the last three games and the World Series title.

The question tonight is — Can the crippled Red Wings roar back to clinch the fourth and last Stanley Cup playoff spot in the National Hockey League's Eastern Division?

The Wings meet their arch-rival for the spot, the Toronto Maple Leafs, at Olympia Stadium tonight.

Detroit must win that game, plus its final two of the season — against Chicago Saturday and Sunday — to stay in contention. And even if Detroit does win all three, Toronto needs only a tie in one of its last three games to clinch the fourth spot.

Toronto helped its cause Wednesday night by knocking off the powerful Montreal Canadiens, 6-4, on two third period goals.

In other NHL action Wednesday, Chicago whipped New York 6-4, Pittsburgh rapped Los Angeles 8-4, and St. Louis turned back Oakland 5-3.

In the game in Detroit tonight, the Red Wings may be without the services of three regulars due to a late season injury and illness jinx.

Injuries or illnesses have struck center Pete Stelmowski, right winger Bruce MacGregor and defenseman Ron Harris. However, there is a chance Stelmowski, who has a strained leg muscle, and MacGregor, who suffered a reaction to medication for a cold, may see action.

The Toronto win Wednesday kept Montreal from clinching the Eastern Division title. The Canadiens hopped into a 3-0 lead in the first 13 minutes of play.

Floyd Smith and Mike Walton scored the third-period goals that snapped a 4-4 tie and carried the Maple Leafs past Montreal. Early goals by Henri Richard, Ralph Backstrom and John Ferguson had built a 3-0 Canadiens' edge.

Then Ron Ellis, Norm Ullman and Dave Keon tied it for the Leafs. Jacques Lemaire of Montreal and Jim Dorey of Toronto swapped goals 18 seconds apart in the final minute of the second period to preserve the tie. Then Smith and Walton broke it.

Ken Wharram's three goals led the Black Hawks and Bobby Hull upped his single season goal scoring record to 56 with one tally.

Pittsburgh, buried in the West Division cellar, won its fourth straight with eight different players scoring against Los Angeles.

Red Berenson powered St. Louis with a pair of goals—his 34th and 35th of the season—as the Blues bunched all five goals in the second period on 19 shots.

Celtics back

In business, Whip 76ers

By the Associated Press

The Boston Celtics are alive and well in the National Basketball Association after all. And, by the way, so are the San Francisco Warriors.

Both teams, bothered by key injuries most of the regular season, looked dead after disappointing finishes in the standings. But nothing revitalizes a team like the playoffs, and the Celtics and Warriors were alive and swinging Wednesday night.

Boston surprised Philadelphia 114-100 behind Bill Russell in the opener of their best-of-seven Eastern Division semifinal, while the Warriors stunned Los Angeles 99-94 in their Western semi opener. And both victories came on the road.

The other semis begin tonight when the New York Knicks travel to Baltimore in the East and San Diego plays at Atlanta in the West.

Russell and the rest of Boston's aging stars ran off a 16-5 string for a 60-4 halftime lead and the 76ers never got closer than points again.

Big Bill, looking the way he did when Boston was carrying away NBA titles annually, scored only two points, but blocked 13 shots, grabbed 14 rebounds and assisted on eight baskets. John Havlicek led the Celtics with 35 points while Billy Cunningham had 27 for the 76ers, who were hurt by a three for 21 from the field shooting performance by Hal Greer.

With Nate Thurmond offsetting Wilt Chamberlain, outscoring him 15-11, Jeff Mullins and Rudy LaRusso combined for more than two-thirds of San Francisco's points with 36 and 32, respectively.

It was LaRusso and Joe Ellis who led a run of 11 straight points that turned a 76-72 deficit into an 83-76 lead, and the Lakers never recovered as LaRusso scored 13 points in the final period.

The second games of the two series will be in Los Angeles and Boston Friday night.

Three area

Cage stars

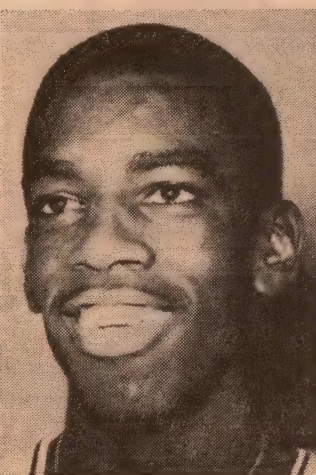

Honored

JERRY MARKHAM

TOM BURR

JAMES GATEWOOD

Milan's Jerry Markham heads the list of three area basketball stars who have been awarded honorable mention on the Class B all-state team.

The 6-2 forward and center topped the Big Reds in both scoring and rebounds and was a unanimous all Southeastern Conference selection. He was always among the area scoring leaders and his final average of 17.6 points per game was good for fourth place. He was voted the team's most valuable player.

Also from the Southeastern Conference is Tom Burr of Saline. Although the Hornets did not have a good season, Burr led the team with an average of 16.1 points per game.

Tom is a 5-11 guard who was awarded all-league honors because of his fine ball handling and a real good fade away jump shot.

James Gatewood of Willow Run is the only other Class B cager in the area to earn honorable mention. Gatewood is a 6-1 1/2 forward who has culminated two fine seasons with the Flyers.

He was a starter with last year's state champions after not even being a regular on the reserve team. This season, while averaging over 13 points per game, he pulled down about 11 rebounds.

Gatewood is quick and earlier in the season was used to trigger the Flyers' fast break, but later was switched to one wing to take more advantage of his speed. Like the other two stars he was named to his conference (Twin Valley) team.

Rouge star leads Class B

DETROIT (AP) — One of the tallest players on this year's Class B All-State high school basketball team averages only 14 points a game, while one of the smallest has a 26-point mark.

But both are exceptional ballplayers who join eight others named to the annual Associated Press team by sports writers throughout Michigan.

The No. 1 vote getter among the choices was 6-foot-

7 River Rouge standout Bill Kilgore who averaged 14 points a game. Another choice was 5-9 guard Dick Heintskill of Bay City All Saints, who pumped in 26 points a game.

Others named were Tom Targosz of Detroit Holy Redeemer, Jeff VanderLende of Grand Rapids East Christian, Bryan Karhoff of Durand, Al Hengesbach of Hastings and Dennis Smith of Ecorse. Also chosen were Maynard Crawley of Oscoda, Dan Brower of Holland Christian and Doug Bateson of Blissfield.

All are seniors. Kilgore was part of Rouge's well-oiled machine that racked up its ninth state championship last week under the coaching of Lofton Greene. He sank 67 per cent of his free throws and grabbed a phenomenal 350 rebounds. He is the best player to come out of Rouge's "basketball factory" since Willie Betts and

Greene says Kilgore "is a much smoother ballplayer."

Heintskill is a fantastic ballplayer and playmaker who is built like a fireplug but is a deadly outside shooter.

In three years he has scored 1,279 points. All Saints beat Flint Ainsworth for the regional tournament championship 70-67 in three overtimes and Heintskill netted all five points in the last overtime period.

Pearson tops track mark In Atlanta 500 time trials

ATLANTA (AP) — Now that favorite David Pearson has shown that it can be done, other drivers went after Atlanta International Raceway's speed records today, as time trials continued for Sunday's 500-mile stock race.

The 34-year-old Pearson, the 1968 NASCAR driving champion, put Ford Motor Company's new 429-cubic inch engine into official use for the first time Wednesday, and shattered the old track mark in a roaring ride around the wind-swept raceway.

His 156.794 miles per hour lap was almost a mile per hour faster than the old standard of 155.085 set last year by Bobby Allison in a car equipped with a 427 wedge engine with dual carburetors.

Pearson was such a clear-cut favorite before the official time trials started that only five other drivers offered even a token challenge. The best of these was Dodge's Charlie Glotzbach, more than two miles per hour slower at 153.148.

"Handling is the big problem here," said Pearson. "The new engine is 100 times heavier than the one we've been using, and the added weight makes a lot of difference on this track."

Pearson was Ford's chief test driver before the new power plant was ruled legal last week by the U.S. Auto Competition Committee. He had driven the engine in a 500-mile test here two weeks ago.

"We got some ideas about how to get the car set up during that test," he said. "So we got the jump on the other Ford drivers."

Because most of the strong cars and drivers elected to take only routine practice runs Wednesday, Pearson said he doesn't expect his pole-winning speed to hold up. "Lap speeds could go as high as 160 m.p.h. for the week is out," he said.

The strong wind that poured gusts up to 35 m.p.h. across the raceway's shallow turns was expected to let up today.

Richard Petty was on Wednesday's qualifying list but lost control in the stiff wind and banged into the third turn guard rail. He escaped with minor damage to the car.

The four other first-day qualifiers were Swede Savage, 151.387 in a Ford; Bobby Allison, 150.837 in a Dodge; Elmo Langley, 141.862 in a Ford, and Frank Warren, 131.835 in a Chevelle.

ANN ARBOR — The University of Michigan, which had one of its finest football seasons last year with an 8-2 record, begins spring practice

Tuesday under the reins of new Coach Glenn "Bo" Schembechler. Because Michigan is the only university in the Big Ten operating on the trimester plan, the Wolverines for the first time have been authorized to try a unique, split spring practice session. The first ends April 19 and the second runs from April 30 to May 6.

Schembechler says the new arrangement is "much better than we've had here before. With a new staff the interruption will give us a chance to appraise the personnel before we complete our spring practice."

Fourteen regulars from the squad that finished second in the conference last year are among the 97 players on the new roster. There are 36 sophomores.

Arizona whips Wolverines, 8-2

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The University of Arizona opened a five-game baseball series with Michigan Wednesday, taking an 8-2 victory from the Wolverines.

Rod O'Brien led the Wildcats at bat with a three-for-five effort, including a double to raise his batting average to .444. The victory raises the Wildcats' season record to 13-1, and winning pitcher Bob Bridges' pitching mark to 3-0. The two teams meet again Thursday and Friday and wind up the series with a doubleheader Saturday.

MSU grapplers favored

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Michigan State is among the favorites to capture the 1969 NCAA wrestling championship today, Friday and Saturday at Brigham Young University.

Oklahoma, Oklahoma State and Iowa State are the other top contenders but MSU Coach Grady Peninger says,

"We've got a good chance." The Spartans won a record fourth straight Big Ten title earlier this month.

Meanwhile, Michigan suffered a blow to its NCAA team when next year's captain Lou Hudson, was injured in the conference meet. Hudson, the Big Ten champion in the 130-pound class, suffered a chest injury in the meet.

Liston eyes Title shot

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sonny Liston has been given a crack at getting the heavyweight championship back in the same arena where he lost it five years ago.

Chris Dundee, Miami Beach promoter, said if Liston gets past Billy Joiner in St. Louis Friday night, the former champ can have a fight with current holder of the hog's share of the title, Jimmy Ellis.

The proposed date was June 21, said Dundee. Terms were not disclosed.

Liston lost the title to Cassius Clay at Miami Beach Convention Hall in 1964. Ellis is recognized as heavyweight champion in all but five states.

Golf lessons Start for women

The Ypsilanti Recreation Department will offer golf lessons for beginning women golfers starting Friday evening, March 31, at West Junior High School.

All women interested in taking the lessons are to register at the school at 7 p.m. There will be eight sessions.

Mrs. Koikales, former Bowling Green University instructor, will be in charge of the classes.

Jensen suffers Heart attack

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Jackie Jensen, former major league baseball star now University of Nevada baseball coach, suffered a heart attack Wednesday while conducting practice.

He was reported in critical condition later at Washoe Medical Center.

Uncertainty within world Plays havoc on stock market

NEW YORK (AP) — A world of uncertainty—about inflation, business growth, Vietnam and the Middle East—has weighed heavily on the stock market in recent months.

Since early December the market has been going down with only brief interruptions for feeble rallies.

After hitting its 1968 high of 985.21 on Dec. 3 the widely watched Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell to a low of 899.80 on Feb. 25—a loss of about 8.6 per cent. Since then this barometer has moved up, closing at 923.30 Wednesday, still far from last year's high.

With economic and political problems all around them, many investors have retired temporarily to the sidelines or have sought other types of investment such as real estate. "The principal reason for the stock market decline is because we have been unable to curtail our galloping inflation," says Robert Johnson, research director for the brokerage firm of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis.

Inflation in the U.S. economy ran at the high rate of 4.7 per cent in 1968 and now is estimated at an annual rate of 5 per cent.

Efforts to stem inflation have included enactment of the 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes last June, a tightening of money policy by the Federal Reserve Board, and a series of increases in banks' prime lending rate which have brought it to a record 7½ per cent.

These actions were meant to reduce the amount of money available for corporate expansion and consumer buying. But they have been slow in becoming effective.

Wall Street wasn't surprised by President Nixon's proposal Wednesday to extend the surcharge for another year. His action had been expected and brokers said its effect had been discounted.

The Dow Jones industrial average's gain of 6.22 points Wednesday was attributed mainly to rising hopes of progress in Vietnam peace talks. In mid-February, when government fiscal officials expressed the opinion that the surcharge would have to be extended, the market fell sharply due to this and other factors. The industrial average's loss in the week beginning Feb. 17 was 35.30 points.

"The main underlying factor in depressing the market and one which still very much persists is the concern as to when brakes in the economic system will take hold," says Richard Scruggs, analyst for Goodbody & Co., a major brokerage firm.

The market has failed in most recent instances to advance in reaction to what usually would be considered good business developments. This, according to economists, is because of apprehension that continued business growth at the recent rate might bring on government controls of prices and wages.

So good business news has become, in a sense, bad news for the market.

Recurrent crises involving international currency also have made American investors more cautious. Gold speculation on the European markets has raised threats of devaluation of the French franc and the British pound and revaluation of the strong West German mark. These developments pose a danger to the U.S. dollar, whose foundation in world commerce is the government-fixed gold price of $35 an ounce.

'There are two Sirhans'

Both are sick, testifies psychiatrist

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A psychiatrist says there is a usual Sirhan Bishara Sirhan and a dissociated Sirhan. They are both sick.

The usual Sirhan, he said, was quite harmless—one of hundreds of thousands of paranoid schizophrenics in the United States. The dissociated one killed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The distinction was drawn at Sirhan's murder trial Wednesday by Dr. Bernard L. Diamond, a University of California psychiatrist who has been instrumental in developing the defense of diminished responsibility. That concept, Sirhan's lawyers hope, will persuade the jury to return a lesser verdict than first-degree murder and thus spare Sirhan from the gas chamber.

Paranoid schizophrenics are no danger to anyone but themselves, Diamond said. In Sirhan's case, Diamond maintained under stiff and sometimes acrimonious cross-examination, "it was a combination of dissociative state superimposed over the paranoid schizophrenic state that caused him to kill Sen. Kennedy."

A dissociative state as defined by the psychiatrist is a trance.

Sirhan, sitting tieless and coatless at the defense table—perhaps the only man comfortable in the small, hot courtroom—appeared unconcerned while Diamond said in a dozen different ways that he is nearly mad. But Sirhan reacted sharply when co-prosecutor David N. Fitts suggested he is a liar.

At one point Sirhan slapped his hand down on the table and cursed. Another time court officials moved to his side and quietly told him to simmer down.

But it was the sparring match between Fitts and Diamond—occasionally with defense attorneys and even Judge Herbert V. Walker joining in—that characterized the cross-examination of the defense's star psychiatric witness.

"You know what I'm talking about, don't quibble with me," Fitts exploded once. Another time, he said, "Doctor, you're dodging me."

Diamond, who rarely faced Fitts while answering but looked at the jury with a constant smile, told the co-prosecutor variously: "Don't put words in my mouth ... I don't answer that, it's irrelevant ... I cannot allow you to distort what I say ... I disapprove of hypothetical questions and I refuse to answer any."

A number of times Judge Walker directed him to answer; at other times the judge told him to confine the answer to the question.

Diamond had called Sirhan an unknowing assassin, programmed like a computer through self-hypnosis to kill Kennedy. He said Sirhan was in a dissociative state—in a trance and in the grips of amnesia—when he wrote death threats against the senator in his diaries and when he killed him.

Jordan to request Israeli air raid halt

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Jordan set up a meeting of the U.N. Security Council today so it could ask for action to stop Israeli air raids on its territory.

Jordanian Ambassador Muhammad H. El-Farra requested the council meeting after Israeli planes raided around the town of Salt Wednesday. Jordan said 18 civilians were killed and 25 wounded.

El-Farra's letter to council President Karoly Csatorday of Hungary asked that the council adopt more adequate and effective measures to check Israeli acts of aggression.

Israel in announcing the raid said its planes attacked an Arab guerrilla base near Salt from which Israel had been attacked. It was expected to counter Jordan's demand with a demand that the council do something to halt Arab attacks on Israel.

Griffin votes, Hart abstains

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., voted with the majority Wednesday when the Senate passed and sent to President Nixon a bill to increase the national debt limit.

The roll call vote was 67-18. Michigan's Democratic Sen. Philip Hart did not vote on the question.

Meeting scheduled Rhododendron

Members of the Great Lakes section of the American Rhododendron Society will hear R. Roy Forster of the Horticultural Experiment Station in Ontario speak on "Research on Hardiness Factors in Rhododendrons" after dinner at the Holiday Inn East in Ann Arbor Saturday night.

The dinner will follow an all-afternoon program at the University of Michigan Botanical Gardens of Dixboro Rd.

After a business meeting at 1 p.m., the society will hear Prof. Kenneth Sink and Glen Lumis of the Michigan State University Department of Horticulture talk about Evergreen Azaleas at 2:30.

At 3:30, Orlando Pride, a past president of the American Horticulture Society from Butler, Pa., will lecture on "Getting Started with Azaleas and Rhododendrons."

GARDEN and Lawn PAGE

If it's fescue:

Grass is 'weed'

Some plants have the distinct honor of being both a wanted plant and a weed. This may sound ridiculous, but it is true. By definition, a weed is an unwanted plant, or a plant not in its proper place.

There is a lawn "weed" that falls into this category. This is tall fescue. This type of grass has also been classified as a "bunch" grass in that it appears as individual clumps rather than a smooth over-all turf.

Tall fescue will tolerate many "impossible" soil and growing conditions and it is a favorite for planting along highways where soil is poor and care minimal. Also, in warmer sections it could be planted as a lawn — although coarse, it gives a covering when mowed very high.

But in good perennial lawns, especially in the Midwest, when clumps of tall fescue appear in the bluegrass lawns, it is a "weed" of the first order.

Most lawn weeds today can be controlled quite easily with the new herbicides, but, not so the tall fescue. It is also a "perennial grass," and consequently many of the crabgrass and dandelion killers have no effect on it.

It can come into a lawn through nearby seeding of a highway, or even perhaps seeds borne by the wind can be deposited on the lawn. Also, seeds can be carried on shoes or in the cuffs of trousers — who knows how it gets into the lawn?

Getting rid of tall fescue where it is a weed is the problem at hand. The best course of action for getting rid of or keeping this weed out is to "do everything right" for the perennial wanted grass, whether it be bluegrass, fine fescue or bentgrass.

The first step would be to feed the wanted grass generously, especially during the winter so the bluegrass can crowd out the tall fescue which often dies out during this period.

This is the sophisticated way of handling tall fescue. But, it may be a long process over several years, and a more drastic action may be desired.

Such an approach may be to kill the tall fescue with a strong herbicide and then reseed.

Turf Builder

America's favorite lawn fertilizer
Simply spread a bag of TURF BUILDER on your lawn and enjoy the difference it will make. Turf Builder is the patented fertilizer that makes grass multiply itself. It feeds slowly and steadily, avoiding the wasteful surge growth that makes for extra mowing. Keeps grass greener longer too. Pick up a bag this weekend and enjoy a greener, thicker lawn this year.

Halts Plus

Crabgrass preventer plus fertilizer

If there was crabgrass in your neighborhood last year, it will likely be back this year, because its seeds are in the ground. But you can stop them before they get started in your lawn with HALTS PLUS. It sets up a barrier which stops crabgrass seeds as they sprout. Full-fertilizes good grass—and grubproofs your lawn for a full year — at the same time. All from a single application.

It's time to plant summer-flowering bulbs

The easiest way to add color to a hot weather garden is with summer-flowering bulbs. These include dahlias, gladioli, anemones, ranunculus, lilies and tuberous begonias. Homeowners who have puttered around a garden for a few years are familiar with the beauty of the various flowers from bulbs that grace the summer garden.

As a rule, summer-flowering bulbs should be planted in the Spring. The first step toward good flowers is to purchase quality bulbs from reliable sources. Bargain bulbs can sometimes give disappointing results. Be sure you are getting the best quality possible and exciting and interesting varieties resulting from years of hybridizing by the world's finest growers.

DAHLIAS: With such an infinite variety of shapes, sizes and colors of dahlias, every homeowner or gardener is sure to find a favorite. Your favorite may be among the tiny pompons no more than an inch in diameter. Or perhaps your taste is for the shaggy flowers as big as dinner plates?

Plant dahlias directly in the garden in the Spring when the soil has warmed up. Prepare the soil for each root by digging a hole a foot wide and deep and working in a half cup of bonemeal and some organic matter such as compost or peatmoss. Mix these ingredients thoroughly with the soil.

Set the tuber in this prepared soil so that it is about 2 inches deep. Be sure to place it with the growing tip pointed upward. It is a good idea to drive a stout stake into the ground for the large dahlias before the tuber is planted. Damage to the tuber can result if it is put in after planting.

GLADIOLUS: Leading a little other summer-flowering bulbs in popularity is the gladiolus. The colors available are countless and they will grow in almost every section of the country.

It is safe to plant gladioli outdoors as soon as the soil is warm enough to spade and there is no danger of the soil freezing again. Plant the bulbs about 3 to 5 inches deep and six inches apart. Repeat plantings every two weeks throughout Spring and early Summer for a continuous display of flowers.

LILIES: This is truly a hardy summer-flowering bulb. Lilies can be planted in Fall or Spring, as soon as possible after they are received or purchased. This is especially true in the Spring. Planting depth varies from 5 to 10 inches.

Lilies like shade for their roots and are particularly benefitted by a thick mulch kept in place the year round.

ANEMONES: This well-known florist's flower is easily grown in home gardens. Blooms can reach four or more inches across on plants growing up to 1½ feet tall. Anemone colors range from purple through blue, red, rose to white. The bulbs should be planted pointed end down. Water the soil well before planting, then do not water too much until the plants are in full growth.

Orchid show planned

The orchids that these members of the Michigan Orchid Society are ready for weekend competition are "in between." Some of the blooms to be exhibited at the annual spring show hosted at Norton's Greenhouse at 2900 Washtenaw Rd., are so tiny they must be viewed through a magnifying glass, others are huge hybrids. The show will be open from 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Sunday. The public is invited to attend.

Freshness needed In flowers for home

When buying flowers for the house, look first for freshness.

The freshest tulips and daffodils, for instance, are those that show color but are still "tight" like buds. These will open in the home and give a longer blooming period.

If flowers are not to be arranged immediately, cut about an inch off each stem and wrap the tulips tightly in the waxed florist paper they come in and plunge them in a deep container so the water comes two-thirds up the stem. Keep them in a dark, cool place for several hours. The flowers will "harden" and have longer life.

Spring flowers give the house a welcome lift while Winter is still raging outdoors. Tulips go well with daffodils. The combination of yellow daffodils and purple irises is perfect. And, cut hyacinths can also be included to give not only color but that delightful fragrance of Spring.

Home arrangements can be made in almost any container — why not try tulips in a teapot or even a beer mug? However, the container should be subordinate to the flowers. The color should not be too bright or clash with the flowers. White or a neutral color are best.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

★ By SYDNEY OMARR ★

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY

"The wise man controls his destiny...Astrology points the way."

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Give full consideration to young people. Be vital, creative. Social evening helps fulfill desires. Lunar accent on change, relations with opposite sex. Accept new friend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Stress on home building - includes construction of stronger family ties. One of your parents is likely to make known strong views. Be charitable. Don't insist on having everything your way.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Accent on how you handle delicate situation involving relatives. Key is to be persuasive. Ask questions - suggest rather than demand. And try your best to remain neutral.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You add to possessions. Money comes your way. Pounce on opportunity. Obtain hint from GEMINI message. Be diplomatic. Lovely gift figures prominently in your day.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Be selective. Don't waste time, talents. Some try false flattery, choose to be with sincere individual who is frank, basically honest. Stick to principles. Avoid legal tangles.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Fine evening for theater, participation in club or group activity. Situation requiring discretion arises. Realize money is at stake. Don't tell everything. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A friendship is put to test. Carry your fair share of responsibility - not excessive weight. You make decision. It should be based on give and take - scales should be balanced.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your aid is asked in special project. Answer in affirmative. Superiors judge your reactions. Maintain poise. Give and you will also receive. Prestige rises. You gain recognition.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Good lunar aspect today coincides with long-range plans, including travel. You gain needed information, incentive. Correspond with one at a distance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Don't take too seriously complaints about finances. One close to you will soon change tunes. Know this and ride with the tide. You will get what is required. Cheer up.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Need to break from routine is obvious. Do something about it. You may not get perfection, but satisfaction is available. Message clear before day is finished.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Accent on basic tasks. Stick to routine. Once debris is cleared, you can make real advance. Co-operate with associates. Build good will. Avoid excess at social affair tonight.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have fine sense of humor, artistic ability. At times you want your own way to such an extent that others are resentful. Temper desire with consideration; then you make real gains. If single, marriage opportunity is on horizon. If married, there could be an addition to family.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A PRISON PUBLICATION in New England announced a shake-up in the editorial staff, as follows: "The former editor of this magazine has reluctantly resigned. He was paroled. But we are fortunate to have back with us the previous editor, who has just become available for the next fifteen years."

The late, inimitable star, Tallulah Bankhead, confessed once that she called everybody "Dahling" because her memory for names was so dreadful. One day, for example, she introduced a new friend to everyone at a party as "Martini." Turned out the girl's name actually was Olive.

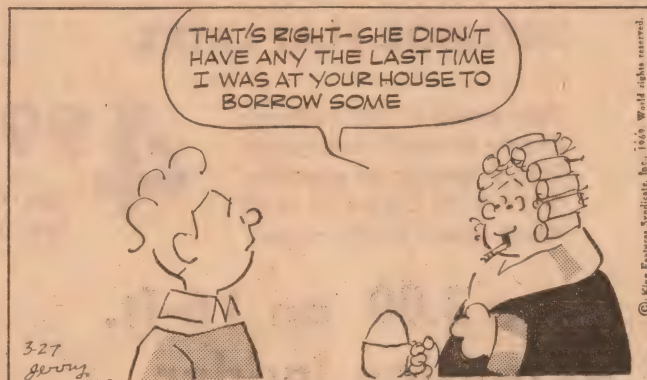

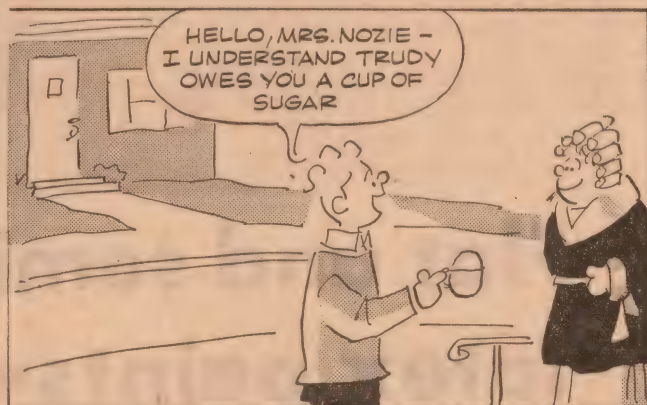

Taken to a movie preview one evening, Tallulah was told that the picture had been made by an independent producer. She suffered through it in relative silence, but announced loudly at its finish, "What I'd like to know is what on earth this producer has to be independent about!"

RIDDLE-DE-DEE:

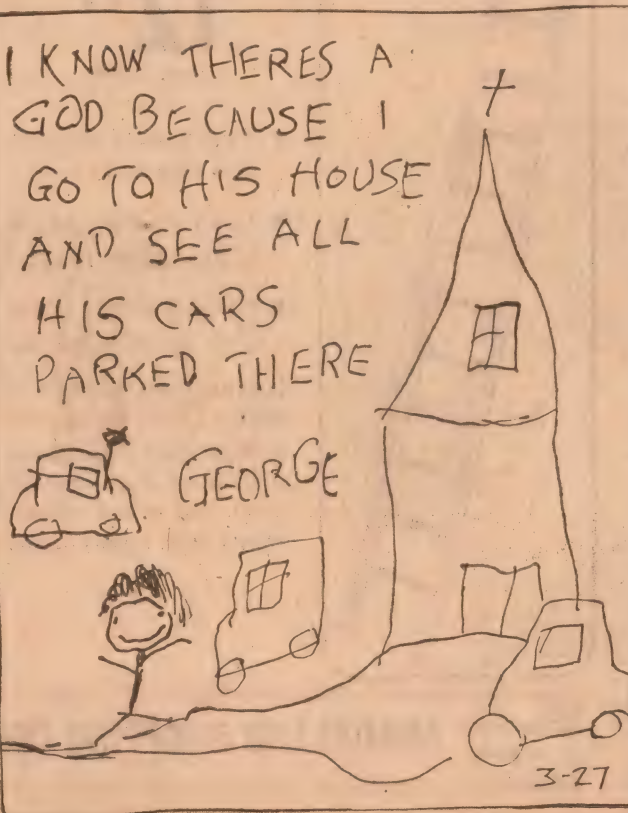

- Q. Why did they expel the bright little cannibal from school?
A. They caught him buttering up the teachers.
Q. Why did the stingy farmer feed his sick pig ten cubes of sugar?
A. He had heard about sugar-cured ham.
Q. What do you get when you cross a movie house with a swimming pool?
A. A dive-in theatre.

DEAR ABBY:

Churchwoman relishes Pain of 'enduring' love

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
 DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman who had fallen in love with her pastor interested me because I, too, am in love with my pastor and always will be.

You advised that woman to change to a sister church and to keep her "love" to herself. A minister wrote in, disagreeing with your advice, and said he would advise the woman to confess her love for her minister, after which he would recommend that she see a psychiatrist who would help her to work her problems through.

You were both wrong. In my case, neither changing churches nor seeing a psychiatrist could ever change my love.

Here is my recommendation: In public, be a good actress, and pretend only a platonic, friendly interest in him. At home, keep busy, busy, busy. Scrub the floor twice, instead of once, if necessary; pursue interesting and time-consuming hobbies to keep the mind from dwelling on "him."

According to the "rules," I must not be in love with this remarkable man who is the most wonderful person I have ever known. But my heart does not know these "rules," and my love for him will endure as long as I live. In Love Forever

DEAR "IN LOVE": Since you've already convinced yourself that you will be in love with this unattainable man "forever," you surely shall be. A "love" which is neither expressed nor reciprocated brings only frustration and pain. If you choose to punish yourself by looking, listening, and longing, with no hope of fulfillment, you are welcome to the pleasure — and pain. I suggest you scrub less and face reality.

DEAR ABBY: Every Christmas my husband gives me a cash gift (usually $25) and tells me to go out and buy myself something I'd really enjoy. How wonderful!

Then a week later he asks if he can "borrow" it back, and I never see it again. What advice have you for me? No Present

DEAR NO: The minute you get your hands on your "present," either spend it or bank it.

DEAR ABBY: You keep telling kids who write in that they should be happy to help with the housework. I think you are wrong.

My dad works all day to support his family. That's HIS job. My brother and I go to school all day and do two hours of homework at night. That's OUR job.

So why shouldn't my mother do the housework? That's her job. It's not like she was sick, worked outside the house, or had little kids to take care of. She always has plenty of time for golf and bridge. Why not for housework? Tired Out at 16

DEAR TIRED OUT: If your mother plays golf and bridge instead of doing her housework, shame on her. But if you're exaggerating, shame on you!

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for answering "Wondering Mother's" letter the way you did.

I, too, was the child of parents who were married after mother became pregnant, and I agree with you. Don't lie.

The children almost always find out anyway. I did. I hope children who do learn the circumstances of their parents' marriage do as I have done. Not once in the 35 years that I have known have I said one word to my parents about it.

Now they know that I know because we all celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary quietly, and I was nearly 50 at the time. All I said to them was, "Thank you for the wonderful home we were raised in and all the love you have given us."

This is one of the things I feel I have done right in my life. No Name, Please Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DR. BROTHERS:

Steadies' different aims May bring eventual break

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: Our 17-year-old daughter has been going out with the same boy for almost a year now. I've tried to encourage her to date other boys but she refuses. The boy is very nice but is always on the verge of failing his courses while my daughter is near the top of the class. He has no desire to go to college while my daughter has a scholarship to a nearby school. I'm so afraid she'll decide to marry him. — B.I.N.

Dear Mrs. N.: Social popularity in high school tends to be more determined by such things as physical appearance, athletic prowess for boys and social poise than by such things as intelligence or academic achievement.

The girl of outstanding academic ability may seek anxiously to hide her success in this area in order to enjoy an active social life. Consequently, alliances that might seem unusual in adult circles, where both partners are extremely different in such things as values, ambition and life goals, are not so rare in high school.

Parents, who tend to want their children to marry persons of their own social status or better are sometimes upset by their child's choice of dating partner. However, not all serious dating relationships on the high school level lead to marriage by any means.

Important factors in whether or not a couple decides to marry are the attitudes of parents and friends towards early marriage and the commitment of the youth to further education.

One recent study found that high school couples whose friends are marriage oriented are 10 times more likely to become engaged than couples whose friends are oriented against marriage at this point in their lives.

Parental approval is somewhat less influential but still an important factor. It seems probable that among teens who intend to go to college and whose friends and family oppose early marriage, a going steady high school relationship is likely to be an episode that ends without engagement.

Socio-economic status is also a factor in early marriage, couples from lower economic statuses tending to marry earlier than higher socio-economic groups.

You seem to assume that because the boy is not going to college he will try to persuade your daughter to marry him. But marriage is not always in the minds of steady daters, although the longer the couple sees each other, the more likely they are to give it serious consideration.

One study found that while most steady dating couples felt that they were in love and that they had a commitment to not date others, only 40 per cent felt that they had even an informal commitment to marry.

Criticizing this boy and his apparent unsuitability by your standards may only tighten the bonds of the couple. Daughters at this age are apt to have a streak of contrariness, anyway, and you may only be forcing your daughter into rationalizing this boy's attributes to herself.

Wait until marriage is actually mentioned before counseling against it. If the relationship is as disparate as you imply, it is likely that the separation of college will emphasize its weaknesses to your daughter.

As a first step to determine whether a young man is sincere, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Brothers in care of The Press, and ask for a copy of her leaflet, "How to Tell a Man's Intentions."

TEEN DATELINE:

Teen feels like prisoner

By ELE and WALT DULANEY

Dere Ele and Walt: I am a family prisoner each weekend. My mom and dad own a mountain cabin and each Friday we drive up and we don't get back until Sunday evening. It's great for my parents and the twins, age 10.

But I'm at the age when I want to be with my friends. The weekend trips mess up all the best dances and concerts for me. My parents won't let me stay home alone and they won't let me "impose" by staying at friends' homes. So what can I do? — Mitch.

Dear Mitch: See if mom and dad will agree to let you bring up a friend with you at least twice a month. Then you'd have shared your family's hospitality and could accept his parents' lodging at least once a month, thereby permitting you to stay in town. Be cautious in raising the idea so that your parents won't feel you resent their company. — Ele and Walt.

Dear Ele and Walt: I am very serious as I write you, so please don't take this letter as a joke or prank of any kind. I'm a 16-year-old boy with a grave problem. The fact is I want to be a girl. I've dreamed of it for years and I am truly not satisfied being a boy. I've been reading about that British author who had an operation performed on him to become a woman and married his chauffeur. So I write to you to find out the expense and hazards of such an ordeal. — Boy Who Wants To Be A Girl.

Dear Boy: We respect your question and answer with no attempt at mirth. First a clarification: the "sex change" operations do not actually transform a male into a female. That's decided irrevocably at birth. The operation simply removes external signs of maleness and substitutes surgical and chemical approximations of female physique. The "altered" human will never be capable of bearing children, etc.

No such operations are performed on minors, or in America without insisting on complete psychoanalysis first. No doctor wants to do surgically what can be rendered unnecessary on a psychiatrist's couch.

Finally, suppose an unhappy male has age, money and has completed psychoanalysis without losing his desire to become a pseudo-woman, the questions still remain: How will his family take it? How will he support himself as a woman? Where will he seek friends and affection?

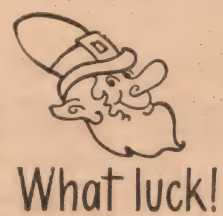

You need some professional help now to think through your wish. It might be your family doctor, the school's counselor or a modern minister.

You also need to start saving money to finance your eventual psychoanalysis. A part-time job would help build up your bank account and lessen time apart to dwell on your unhappiness. — Ele and Walt.

Teens. Troubled by the prospect of that first kiss? Ele and Walt Dulaney's newsletter, "First Kisses," will help. For a copy, send a dime and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Teenage Date-Line, in care of The Press. For girls, too.

Life & Leisure: A guide for dedicated fun-lovers

What's at the movies tonight

THE SERGEANT: Rod Steiger lends characteristic power to this portrait of an army sergeant whose outward arrogance barely conceals a man torn by self-doubt and guilt. The film touches on such taboo subjects as homosexuality, but with the dignity and understanding necessary to justify them as an essential part of good cinema. —State

SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON: One of Walt Disney's most spectacular adventure stories, the film recreates the classic about a family stranded on a deserted island and forced to make their home there. Technically and artistically up to the standards. (G) —Wayside

GREETINGS: Anti-establishment satire loosely wound on the theme of three youths passing time until they receive the inevitable "greetings" from their friendly draft board. Ranging from blackest comedy to sheer hilarity, the film is no less meaningful for the fact that it is also superbly entertaining. (X)—Fifth Forum

MOVIE AUDIENCE GUIDE

These ratings apply to films released after Nov. 1, 1968

THIS SEAL
In ads indicates the film was submitted and approved under the Motion Picture Code of Self-Regulation.

Suggested for GENERAL audiences.

Suggested for MATURE audiences (parental discretion advised).

RESTRICTED — Persons under 16 not admitted, unless accompanied by parent or adult guardian.

Persons under 16 not admitted. This age restriction may be higher in certain areas. Check theater or advertising.

HOT MILLIONS: Peter Ustinov ushers in the era of technologically advanced crime with a foolproof scheme for computerized embezzlement. Add to basic story line a high sense of comic flair and — Q.E.D. — a smashing funny movie well worth anybody's evening. — Willow Drive-in

BLOW-UP: Michelangelo Antonioni's masterful handling of a photographer's accidental glimpse of a murder. All technical aspects — particularly the use of photography and music — blend into a solid organic experience which hits you emotionally and keeps you probing intellectually. David Hemmings and Vanessa Redgrave, both excellent. — Algier's Drive-in

THE FOX: Sandy Dennis, Anne Heywood and Keir Dullea turn in fine performances as the participants in a slightly macabre love triangle. The film distorts the original Lawrence story with an unnecessary emphasis on the more sordid aspects of the pervading sexual tension, but it is handled well enough to become a viable artistic alternative. — University Drive-in

THE FIFTH HORSEMAN IS FEAR: Czech-made film which follows a Jewish doctor through the nightmare landscape of Nazi-occupied Prague. Artistically and technically superb, it blends symbol, incident and meaning to evoke the despair of human suffering and the power of human courage. —Fifth Forum

2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY: Spectacular cinema effects have made Stanley Kubrick's futuristic epic one of the most well-deserved hits of the season. The relative absence of dialogue and narrative only increases the visual magnificence of a film which challenges all the unique possibilities of the film media. — Quo Vadis

RIOT: Filmed in the Arizona State Prison, the film aspires to a realistic recreation of the anger and frustration which drive inmates to a desperate bid for freedom. Unfortunately, realism has been interpreted to mean unrestrained violence, slapdash editing, weak acting and inadequate characterization. To quote Time, the film "is as effective as a convict chorus of 'Don't Fence Me In.'" — Ypsi-Ann Drive-in (with "Samson and Delilah"), Wayne Drive-in (with "Red Line 7000" and "Rowan and Martin at the Movies")

BULLITT: Director Peter Yates has taken two movie clichés—the grimly honest cop in a corrupt world and one-dimensional "star" Steve McQueen — and made them both work. Artistically and technically superior; a cinema triumph. (M) Quo Vadis Penthouse I

RACHEL, RACHEL: A chronicle of human failure, of the perpetual spinster who turns everything she touches to sterility and defeat. Paul Newman's first attempt at direction may well establish him as an artist in a second field, while Joanne Woodward's performance proves, once again, her virtuosity as a character actress. — Martha Washington

THE NIGHT OF THE FOLLOWING DAY: Marlon Brando has once again found a film worthy of his talents in Hubert Cornfield's chilling study of the pathology underlying the kidnapping of a young girl. Psychological acuity is matched by technical brilliance in a film which ranks among the best thrillers in recent memory. — Quo Vadis Penthouse II

WAIT UNTIL DARK: Audrey Hepburn stars as a blind girl involved in a lethal game of blindman's bluff with several desperate criminals. Generally routine chillerama, saved at the end by one of the most genuinely horrifying moments on the screen. — University Drive-in

CHARLY: Sensitive story of a mentally-retarded man given a second chance by a miraculous brain operation, and eventually plunged back into darkness when the new advance proves temporary. An easy candidate for embarrassing pathos, the film is saved by dedicated low-key direction and Cliff Robertson's almost loving portrayal of the ill-fated hero. (G) — La Parisien, Michigan

THE IMPOSSIBLE YEARS: Take a perplexed parent unable to understand a rebellious 17-year-old daughter, throw in adolescent love interest with the boy next door, and put Dad David Niven's production on the line. It all adds up to another family situation cliché, rescued from the mundane only by superior acting and very clever direction. (G) — Willow and Algier's Drive-ins

THE HEART IS A LONELY HUNTER: Carson McCullers' story of a deaf-mute too sensitive for the vulgar tragedies of this world, too compassionate for the people who inhabit it. A fragile film kept this side of sentimentality by Alan Arkin's flawless handling of the title role. — Martha Washington

FACES: The story of a marriage in the process of collapse, John Cassavetes' film focuses on a quartet of sad, frustrated people trying desperately to convince themselves that they are having a good time. Painfully and embarrassingly intimate, the film's great strength lies in the fact that the audience continues to watch what they would prefer not to, and comes away with a greater sense of identification than they might wish to feel. — Campus

WRECKING CREW: Dean Martin dredges up agent Matt Helm for a second outing, this time in pursuit of a billion-dollar shipment of hijacked gold. Dean sings spoofs and sexes it up a bit with Elke Sommer, Nancy Kwan and Tina Louise to turn out a film remarkable only for the fact that it doesn't even pretend to be anything more than a rerun of earlier Dino efforts. — Fox Village

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL SHERIFF: A Western to end all Westerns... and it probably will, as it methodically reduces all the standard genre clichés to utter hilarity. James Garner plays the "stranger," Walter Brennan, "the vicious outlaw" and Joan Hackett, "the sweet young thing" in a film which is really too witty and intelligently amusing to claim a 'G' rating. — State-Wayne Peter Ustinov and Maggie Smith are partners in a fantastic computerized crime in the ribald farce "Hot Millions" now at the Willow Drive-In.

Books

SUNDAY THE RABBI STAYED HOME by Harry Kemelman (Putnam; $5.95). This is the third outing for Kemelman's clerical sleuth and, contrary to the law of diminishing returns, it's probably the best of the three. A rather routine murder-mystery, the book is woven with homespun Jewish theology and Talmudic logic which gives it an added cultural dimension. Although obviously appealing to a Jewish audience, the book transcends ethnic categories by describing personality and philosophical conflicts which — although they center on a synagogue — are hardly unknown to the church-going population. Written with wit and humor, the book is thoroughly enjoyable reading and should bolster Kemelman's reputation as a first-rate raconteur.

Our best to you...

EMU-CIVIC ORCHESTRA: Edward J. Szabo, associate professor of music, will conduct the student and community orchestra in their fifth concert of the season this evening. Titled a "Concerto Concert," the program will feature six student soloists including Arthur Maday, a resident Ypsilantian, who will play Beethoven's "Concerto No. 1 in C Major for Piano and Orchestra." The program will also highlight works by Arutunian, Puccini, Wieniawski, Dukas and Mozart. — EMU Pease Auditorium; 8 p.m. concert; admission free.

'Marcus Welby, M.D.'

Doctor reenters nighttime TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The dedicated doctor, after a long absence from the nighttime television, is on his way back. And ABC, by good luck or shrewd foresight, has "Marcus Welby, M.D." signed up for next season, a good time to have a doctor in the house.

There are plentiful signs that the barrage of criticism from Washington will effect next season's action output in television. In an earlier period when TV violence was under attack, the public grew to know and love a t h a t brooding neurosurgeon Ben Casey, and the earnest hospital resident, Dr. Kildare.

Dr. Welby who made his first house call Wednesday night when the series pilot—all two hours of it—was shown, is something else. This devoted doctor is middle-aged, a widower with a daughter who married in the pilot, and the victim of a heart attack at the beginning of the program. What's more, he's a general practitioner—perhaps show business' first since Dr. Christian.

A series about a doctor has built-in advantages. In their daily work they deal with the drama of life and death. Where the Western or private eye series might draw critical fire for gunplay or fights, a doctor's involvement with his patients is less likely to attract that kind of attention.

The feature-length pilot film that introduced Robert Young in the title role suffered from the ailments that afflict most of these two-hour double-duty shows. It was full of bits and pieces that demonstrated the directions the series might move into but did not work well into a single show.

Dr. Welby not only had his own health problems but was busy trying to persuade a young doctor—on the rugged Vince Edwards style—to become a family physician instead of a specialist. He also was treating an assortment of patients with an assortment of ailments. They ranged from a young man who had lost all speech except one word to an overweight teen-ager who was cheating on her diet.

William Holden's first program in his CBS "Unconquered Worlds" series was a document on wild life conservation in Africa, and a program of a superior quality.

It was a report on a trip to a huge lake in northern Kenya. Its shores are inhabited by primitive tribes, some of whom still hunt with spears.

One especially interesting segment showed efforts to save the ostrich in the area after it had been hunted almost to extinction. The job was primarily that of re-educating the men of the Turkana tribe to protect rather than kill the big birds—a delicate business since to the tribesmen, the plume of the ostrich is a symbol of manhood.

Another unusual segment showed ceremonies initiating young men as tribe warriors. Generally the film and the subject matter were fascinating. The script and narration, however, were standard travel-talk.

NET PLAYHOUSE: "Cathy Comes Home" stars Carol White ("Poor Cow") in a slice-of-life drama about the intense poverty in Urban England. Ray Brooks and Emmett Frame head the supporting cast.—8 p.m.; Ch. 56

THE NIGHT OF THE IGUANA: The most successful film adaptation of Tennessee Williams' work, this is a powerful study of human desperation. Set in a broken-down hotel in Mexico, the film centers on a defrocked minister torn between spiritual longings and carnal desires. The all-star cast features Richard Burton, Ava Gardner and Deborah Kerr.—9 p.m.; Ch. 2

WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT WORLD: The title's been changed to "The Dean Jones Variety Hour," but the entertainment is still the same winning blend of comedy, song and satire. Tonight's guests include Janet Leigh, Paul Revere and the Raiders, and comics Carol Robinson, Ken Greenwald and Jack De Leon participating in sketches ranging from a revolt in a senior citizen's home to a musical salute to Charles de Gaulle.—9 p.m.; in color on Ch. 7

Theater

AN ITALIAN STRAW HAT: "The horse that ate the hat" is the object of an epic pie-in-the-face chase in this delightful musical farce by Eugene Labiche. Produced by the EMU Players under the direction of P. George Bird with choreography by Virginia Koste. — EMU Quirk Theater; 8 p.m. curtain, Friday at 7 and 10 p.m.; tickets $1.75

THE ALCHEMIST: Ben Johnson's scathing satire on the materialistic society is as applicable to 20th century America as it was to Elizabethan England. It is the great triumph of the play that it has survived, not as a period piece, but as sharp and relevant theater. Produced by the Stratford National Theater of Canada under the auspices of the PTP program. — Lydia Mendelssohn Theater, Ann Arbor; 8 p.m. curtain; tickets from $2 to $6.

DR. FAUSTUS: Christopher Marlowe's story of the man who sold his soul to the devil in exchange for the pleasures of the earthly realm. Produced by the world-famous Royal Shakespeare under the direction of Clifford Williams. — Fisher Theater, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. curtain; tickets from $3 to $6.50.

AMPHYTRION 38: Jean Giraudoux' "Immortal" farce about the rival god Jupiter's confrontation with the mating games of mortals. Detroit

RED GARTER: Detroit branch of the great chain that marks a favorite night-spot in most of the major cities. Old-time music of banjos, musical saws and the honkiest piano around. Peanuts and pretzels with beer and cocktails from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. nightly. — 1246 Library behind Hudson's; $1 cover on Friday and Saturday nights;

POISON APPLE: Ingenious decor creating a little bit of Never-Never-Land in little old Detroit. Originally slated to include a seething caldron of forbidden fruit, the poison apple in question now refers to a wild drink that will knock you on your ear. But do try to catch a bit of the entertainment — mostly folksy and rather good — before hand. — Poison Apple, 13100 E. Jefferson, Detroit; cover $1 on weekdays, $1.50 on Saturday

RAVEN GALLERY: Keyed to the quiet blues sound of Ron Coden, the Raven is a nice cozy place where friends — old and new ones — get together for an evening off the town. — Raven Gallery, 29101 Greenfield, Southfield; shows nightly at 9:30 and 10:30; 11:30 on weekends; cover $1.50 during the week, $2.50 Friday and Saturday

SIXTEN EHRLING returns after a 3-week absence to conduct the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in a concert this evening. Maureen Forrester, contralto, will be featured in arias by Handel and Mozart and the Dvorak "Zigeunerlieder," while the remainder of the program will include Gluck's Overture to "Iphigenie and Aulide," Debussy's "Prelude to the Afternoon of a Fawn," and Stravinsky's "Rites of Spring." — Ford Auditorium, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. concert; tickets from $2.50 to $6.25.

Wilson Eyes end Of war

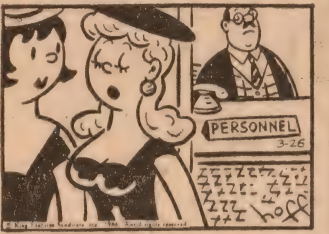

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson flew to Lagos today to seek a bombing halt as a step toward ending the civil war between Nigeria and secessionist Biafra.

The British leader also planned to present proposals for extending mercy facilities to alleviate civilian starvation and suffering on both sides.

Sources close to the government said Wilson was prepared to agree to one exception—bombing of Biafra's lone airstrip near the village of Uli. Although the landing strip is used by planes bringing relief supplies, it also receives planes bringing arms by night, and Wilson therefore would find it hard to object to continued bombing there.

Wilson said in a radio interview before his departure that he did not think mediation was possible at present. If it were, he added, it would have to be carried out by Africans through the Organization for African Unity.

Osteopathic School has Conditions

LANSING (AP) — The State board of education said Wednesday its support of a school of osteopathic medicine rests on the condition that the school affiliates with one of the major existing universities.

The resolution appeared to be a blow to hopes by osteopaths of state financial support for an independent school of osteopathic medicine, under construction at Pontiac.

The resolution was offered by Dr. Leroy Augenstein, a professor at Michigan State University.

Ray, lawyer denied talk

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray, who wants to disavow his admission of guilt in the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has been denied an immediate meeting with a Memphis attorney at the state prison here.

Harry S. Avery, Tennessee commissioner of corrections, said Richard J. Ryan was turned away by prison officials Wednesday because he had not been officially retained as Ray's lawyer.

In another development, the Tennessee Supreme Court handed down a decision which could become a major hurdle for Ray in his bid to gain a new trial and overturn his 99-year sentence.

The court, in an opinion by Justice Allison B. Humphreys dealing with a burglary conviction, ruled that a convicted criminal cannot seek to invalidate a prison sentence on grounds he was misadvised by his attorney to plead guilty.

Jerry Ray, James' brother, said last week Ray would ask for a new trial on grounds he was "pressured" by his former attorney, Percy Foreman, into entering a guilty plea. Foreman has denied he put pressure on Ray.

Ray's brother also said a asked to work on the new trial plea. He identified the attorney as "A.J. Ryman."

Prison sources said Ryan did not present a letter or other proof of contact with Ray when he arrived at the prison.

Referring to the state Supreme Court's ruling in the burglary case, one of Ray's prosecutors, Asst. Dist. Atty. Gen. Robert K. Dwyer, said it assures "more than ever that Ray's conviction will stand."

Nixon cover-up charged:

VC denounces 'private talks'

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong's National Liberation Front today denounced the Saigon government's offer of private peace talks as "a maneuver of the Nixon administration aimed at covering up its policy of intensifying the war of aggression in South Vietnam."

In what appeared to be an outright rejection, the NLF's "foreign minister," Tran Buu Kiem, told the 10th weekly session of the Paris negotiations that the offer of secret contacts made by South Vietnam was on the orders of the United States and exposed American "obduracy and hypocrisy."

If the United States "really wants to settle the Vietnam problem, it must hold direct talks with the NLF," Kiem said. The United States has refused to talk directly with the Front as a separate political entity.

Kiem said President Nguyen Van Thieu offered to hold private discussions to "cope with public opinion in the United States and throughout the world, which indignantly condemns the United States and for its intensification of the war and for hindering progress at the Paris conference."

While this apparent rejection of the offer might be a screen to keep secret contacts secret, it seemed certain to set back the hopes aroused in recent days by the statements in Saigon and Washington.

The United States and South Vietnam did not specifically mention the bids for secret talks at the conference.

Instead, U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the other side, "The responsibility for aggression against South Vietnam lies in Hanoi." He claimed that two thirds of all combat forces facing the Americans and South Vietnamese are North Vietnamese.

Lodge said 85 per cent of the other side's combat forces in the five northern provinces of South Vietnam are North Vietnamese, and that northerners make up more than 80 per cent of such combat forces in the Saigon region.

Lodge said this was why the Americans propose mutual withdrawal of all external forces from South Vietnam. He added that the United States remains ready to discuss these proposals "at any time." Up to now the Americans have been unable to get North Vietnam to admit publicly that it has any troops in the South.

South Vietnamese Ambassador Phan Dang Lam urged the other side to "start immediately serious and correct discussions." He did not specify secret discussions. He repeatedly restated his government's position that the war is caused solely by aggression from the North.

Lam warned that the South Vietnamese "will not accept any settlement whose result is to place South Vietnam under Communist domination against the wishes of the majority of the population."

Kiem's statement appeared to leave the door ajar. At no point in his prepared statement did he say specifically the front refused to talk privately.

The implication is that the main obstacle to such talks is the fact that the United States refuses to talk with the Front.

"The Nixon administration, though defeated, pursues and intensifies its war of aggression in South Vietnam and obdurately clings to its Saigon puppet administration," Kiem said.

"It's arguments boil down to the following: Unless the puppet army and administration prove strong enough to cope with the patriotic forces in South Vietnam and maintain South Vietnam in the grip of U.S. neocolonialism, the United States will not think of withdrawing its troops."

"... This is the truth about U.S. planned violence, seeking to compel the South Vietnamese people to accept the rotten U.S. puppet regime."

Pakistan returns To normal status

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — The resignation of President Mohammed Ayub Khan and the imposition of martial law have restored calm to Pakistan.

Schools and universities opened today for the first time in four months. Mills and factories neared full production again after a series of strikes.

Long lines formed outside police stations as citizens handed in firearms in accordance with martial law orders. In Karachi, police said 15,000 pistols and rifles were turned in Wednesday.

Workers were scrubbing building walls clean of slogans painted during the last four months of antigovernment agitation that brought the Moslem nation of 120 million close to civil war.

Troops guarded such vital installations as radio stations and government buildings but otherwise were not seen much on the streets.

The new military ruler is Gen. A. M. Yahya Khan, who was appointed supreme commander by Ayub Khan when the president resigned Tuesday after 10 years in power. Ayub was in seclusion in the capital, Rawalpindi.

There has been no public response from opposition political leaders to the martial law, which prohibits them from criticizing the law or its administrators. Under martial law, the administration can punish by death persons convicted of destroying public property, smuggling, damaging vital installations or attacking members of the armed forces.

Anyone taking part in a strike can be imprisoned for 14 years and anyone criticizing martial law can receive up to 10 years in prison.

INVESTING
Plowshare bids

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — I would like to accumulate shares in a company working in the commercial development of atomic energy. Could you name a few firms in this area?—E.E.

A — Commercial applications of nuclear devices are being developed under the Atomic Energy Commission's Plowshare Program. CER-Geonuclear has five firm contracts in this technical area and will conduct two of the three new projects announced since December. Contract negotiations on the potentially commercial Project Rulison have concluded and CER will act as program manager.

This leading service-engineering organization in the geonuclear applications field is owned by EG&G, Continental Oil, Brennan-Paige and Eberline Instruments. Commitments in any of these would provide varying degrees of participation in this field.

Q — I own over 1,000 shares of Canal-Randolph and also a block of Nationwide Industries. Are these stocks good to hold?—B.M.

A — Although both companies operate in highly competitive fields, capable management teams have earned for their companies positions of leadership within their respective industries. Canal-Randolph not only operates real-estate holdings but also owns nine stockyards and leases a tenth. In spite of innovations within the meat-packing industry that eliminate the use of central holding yards, full-scale adoption of these newer techniques is at least a decade away.

Earnings improvement has been recorded annually for the past decade with $1.50 per share reported in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31.

Nationwide Industries, initially offered to the public in 1968 at $13.75, rose sharply but has since settled back to a more realistic level. The company's extensive franchising business covers such areas as tool and equipment rental, retail pharmacies, bridal salons and a fund-raising entertainment service. Nationwide also manufactures specialized railroad equipment and designs and constructs rapid transit track systems. Earnings in 1967 were 80 cents a share and management estimates a 50 per cent increase will be reported for 1968. In view of the growth projected for the entire service industry, Nationwide appears to have a good long-range potential.

LTV Dispute Settled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department and Ling-Temco-Vought Inc. have reached a temporary agreement in their dispute over acquisition of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. But the government still hopes to block the huge conglomerate's takeover of J&L.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, announcing the agreement Wednesday night, said an antitrust suit challenging the merger will be filed April 15.

The government will sue to force LTV, the nation's 14th largest corporation, to divest itself completely of stock in J&L, the country's sixth largest steel company. LTV already owns 63 per cent and wants to buy more.

Mitchell said that the two sides had agreed to a temporary injunction setting up conditions under which the two companies could easily be separated if the government wins its antitrust suit.

The suit is viewed as a test of whether the government can use existing legislation to attack mergers involving conglomerates, giant corporations made up of several apparently unrelated businesses.

Although the Johnson administration maintained new laws were needed, Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard W. McLaren, head of the Justice Department's antitrust division, said he believes the corporations can be challenged under the 1949 Celler-Kefauver amendment to the Clayton Antitrust Act.

been learned about the death, but that they also would not be revealed.

Police have asked that anyone who may have given the girl a ride or seen her hitchhiking come forward and give their information, as minor as it may seem. Teams of city and State Police detectives now are checking out all leads and tips in the case, including the girl's use of drugs and possible connection with "hippie" elements in Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti.

Wayne County detectives said some people were under the impression that Maralynn was an informer, but in truth she was seeking their help in an effort to end the serious drug habit that she had acquired. They indicated that the habit was directly connected with the girl's death.

Mrs. Skelton said her daughter was often in debt and was going to Romulus Saturday to pay a $30 debt to someone known to her as Electric Head. Mrs. Skelton said her daughter took up with a hippie element in recent months and spent more time with them than at home.

Police reported that Mrs. Skelton received a telephone call Saturday night asking if she wanted to find her daughter "stretched out somewhere with three bullet holes in her head." This call was investigated and said to have come from a friend who was concerned with Maralynn's being out alone.

The girl called a friend Saturday at 4 p.m. from Arborland Shopping Center, agreeing to meet later at EMU's McKenny Union. Mrs. John Santucci, Jr., 17, told police that Maralynn had implied she was planning to hitchhike to EMU, but failed to show up when Mrs. Santucci and her husband arrived at the union.

Reservist Supported

FT. RILEY Kan. (AP) — About 20 persons demonstrated quietly in a roadside park area adjacent to this military reservation Wednesday, protesting the imprisonment of an Army reservist arrested March 12 in a Detroit church.

The soldier is Tom Sincavich. He was arrested in the church where he had taken refuge for five days and charged with being absent without leave.

Sincavich had submitted his resignation to the Army reserves last June after being ordered to participate in riot control training, which he called racist and hypocritical.

The demonstrators outside Ft. Riley, mostly students from Kansas State University, carried signs which read: "We support Tom Sincavich in the Ft. Riley Stockade for defending life against oppression."

CADILLAC (AP) — The superintendent of schools at Cadillac has been receiving requests from educators all over the country. They all want his coloring book.

Supt. Stuart Ohlmsstead devised a 16-page cartoon booklet to explain to parents the mysteries of school millage elections.

He used it in the last election in Cadillac. The millage proposal passed. The book is called "A Coloring Book for Busy Parents."

Said Ohlmsstead, who gives the copies away free: "I wish I would have copyrighted the thing."

Controversial tank lauded

Pentagon praised vehicle's work in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says a tank under congressional attack on a "billion-dollar boo boo" has made a significant contribution in Vietnam combat operations.

The military came to the defense of the controversial Sheridan light tank after Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., charged this week that the Army hustled the weapon to Vietnam with "manifest defects and deficiencies."

The Sheridan program has been a "billion-dollar boo boo," Stratton charged. Hundreds are now sitting idle at Army depots throughout the country, he said, adding that the Sheridans in Vietnam are unsuited for the fighting.

The Army, however, said a command report from the war zone "reflects a very favorable assessment" after six weeks of battle use.

The Army told an inquiring newsman that troops equipped with the Sheridan—technically referred to as an arms reconnaissance vehicle—"have accounted for 268 enemy soldiers killed and 11 captured."

"The trafficability, mobility, speed and firepower of the Sheridan have enabled it to make a significant contribution to combat operations," the Army stated.

"The problems that have been experienced during this early period appear to be minor when considered in the context of the system's overall performance."

Stratton thinks the Army didn't consider the problems small. On Tuesday, he noted that the Army has issued some 20 pages of restrictions on the Sheridan's operations. Some dealt with fuel tank leaks, clogged air vents, periscope failures and flammable cartridge cases.

Stratton also said the reconnaissance tank was so noisy it could be heard for three miles and its heavy exhaust smoke made it an easy target.

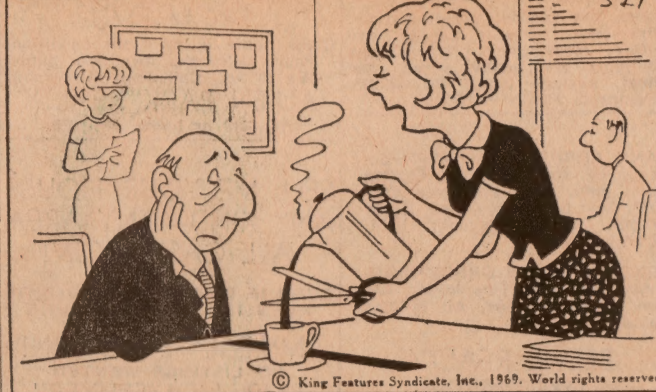

The Army said the Sheridan was deployed to Vietnam without its new Shillelagh surface-to-surface missiles "due to the close quarters of most engagements in Vietnam and the absence of other armored targets."

The operation of the Sheridan's missile system has been subject to some question, but Lt. Gen. Austin Betts contended Tuesday the Shillelagh passed all its tests "with flying colors."

Betts, the Army's chief of research and development, acknowledged, however, that "all the returns are not in. We won't know for another two years whether it was a mistake or whether it wasn't."

Judge orders teachers To return to classrooms

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Normal classes for Grand Rapids public schools were scheduled today after Kent County Circuit Judge Stuart Hoffius ordered 1,400 striking teachers to return to work.

Superintendent of Schools Norman Weinheimer slated the classes, although no agreement has been reached with teachers on a contract.

Judge Hoffius, who has been mediating the dispute, issued the injunction against the striking teachers Wednesday.

The judge said he had gone as far as he could in trying to reach a settlement. He said if schools were not reopened, it would cause irreparable harm to the district's 34,000 students.

Members of the Grand Rapids Education Association walked off the jobs Friday, ending their day-to-day work agreement with the school board. They have been without a contract since Jan. 17.

Used car Price hike Up 6.1%

DETROIT (AP) — The sharp jump in the price of used cars last month—15 times the average hike in other consumer goods—was viewed today as a return to normal price levels. A scarcity of prime used cars, due in part to "spring fever" buying, also was credited with driving prices up.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics had announced Tuesday that used car prices in February rose 6.1 per cent above January's prices, while the cost of other consumer goods went up an average .4 per cent.

This increase, said statistics Commissioner Arnold Chase, was a reaction to a depressed market. He said car rental and leasing agencies had driven the market down in December and January by dumping their 1968 models.

The pattern, he said, has become increasingly prevalent in recent years as fleet agencies have expanded, and February's rise was only slightly ahead of the price jump at the same time a year ago.

Used car prices declined about seven per cent in December, 1968 and 2.7 per cent in January of this year, he said.

The bureau's statistics on used cars, Chase said, were based on figures provided by the National Auto Dealers Association in Washington, D.C., which receives reports from more than 180,000 retail used car transactions from some 6,000 dealers. Wholesale price data was gathered from 10,000 wholesale dealers and 75 auctions the NADA said.

Dealers in Chicago and Dallas attributed a scarcity of prime used cars to "spring fever" buying by the public. In Atlanta dealers said owners were holding on to their cars instead of trading them in on new ones.

A Detroit used car dealer attributed the higher prices to lower new car demand and increased buying of used cars in his area.

Cagney Intercedes For island

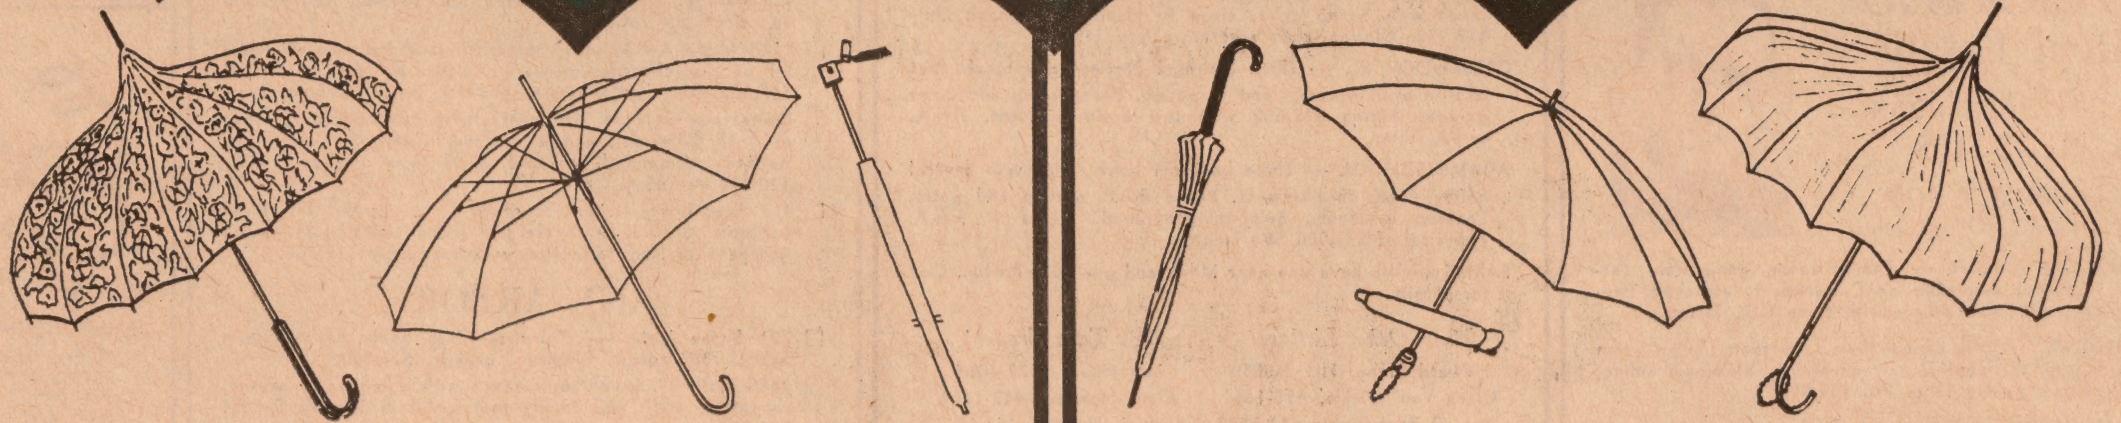

BOSTON (AP) — Actor James Cagney, who has a summer home on Martha's Vineyard, has appealed to the state legislature to save the island vacation spot from becoming a jet-liner stop.

In a telegram to the House Ways and Means Committee, which is considering an appropriation for a jet runway, Cagney said:

"For more than 30 years I have watched Martha's Vineyard go downhill as a place of natural wonder and peaceful haven. Now they are talking of runways for jets. Is there to be no end to the destruction of all that is natural and worthwhile? Please give it some thought."
